Viet Nam Chief Warns Students On Draft Gripes

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, defending South Viet Nam's draft law, has warned that he will get tough with students who oppose the decree.

"The present government has an open ear for constructive criticism, but shall not sacrifice its concern for the general welfare by bowing to senseless opposition," Ky said Monday in a statement reported by Viet Nam Press, the official government news agency.

Speaking in the central highlands town of Ba Me Thout, Ky defended the law making men under 37 who have not previously served in the military eligible for the draft.

Student groups in Hue, Da Nang and Saigon have charged that the law discriminates against the intellectual community. They have called for a return to civilian rule.

The students have aimed their attacks at Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, chairman of the National Leadership Committee, charging him with being a dictator.

Ky said no one individual is responsible for policy but that the government is founded on the concept of collective leadership.

"Chairman Nguyen Van Thieu can decide nothing by himself," Ky said. He said that the decisions reached were made by the entire national leadership.

"I cannot let this country fall into the same situation as a South American republic with five presidents, each of them in power for one week," he said.

"Complaints about alleged dictatorial, inefficient and ambitious leadership must be supported by details, proofs," the premier declared.

In the meantime, American Strategic Air Command B52 bombers from Guam hit two suspected Viet Cong concentrations tonight in South Viet Nam, a U.S. military spokesman said.

One strike by the huge eight-engine planes was made on Quang Tin Province, 320 miles northeast of Saigon. The other was carried out in the Communist stronghold called one D. 30 miles north of the capital in Bien Hoa Province.

The raids were the 15th and 16th made by B52s in the Vietnam war. The same areas were hit by SAC bombers last weekend. It was disclosed Monday that the role of the B52s would be stepped up sharply.

In another development, a government unit clashed with Communist guerrillas 175 miles northeast of Saigon in Dar Lac Province, the spokesman said. Ten Viet Cong were reported killed and two captured in the action.

Government forces retook an outpost 330 miles northeast of Saigon that had been overrun in the night and set ablaze by the Viet Cong.

Severe Storm Warning Up

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Weather Bureau issued a severe thunderstorm forecast today for portions of west central and northwestern Pennsylvania, most of Ohio except the northwest, extreme southwest and extreme south.

It said the possibility of severe thunderstorms with large hail and locally damaging winds will exist in an area along and 60 miles either side of a line from Dayton, Ohio, to 50 miles southeast of Erie, Pa., from 3 to 9 p. m., EST, today.

South's Racial Barriers Starting To Fall Quietly

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Racial barriers fell quietly throughout the South as thousands of Negroes began attending classes with white pupils on the first day of widespread school desegregation accelerated by the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

There was no trace of the violent, bitter resistance of earlier years as the trend of quiet change, indicated last year, became a clear-cut pattern in rural and urban areas like Monday. Few, if any, incidents were reported in the South, and it appeared the era of racial segregation in schools was coming to an end.

Indicative of the change was Mansfield, Tex., which became a Southern symbol of resistance to school integration less than a decade ago when whites staged mass protests to integration. All was quiet Monday as about 70 Negro junior and senior high school students attended desegregated classes.

"We did not have nor did we expect any trouble at all," said Supt. Willie Pigg.

Some schools already had begun classes. Many others opened Monday, and others will begin classes during the next two weeks.

Desegregation of South Carolina's schools spread to several urban areas with no incidents as about 900 Negroes were added to previously white classrooms. In Barnwell, S.C., six Negroes were turned down when they were informed that no transfers would be permitted pending acceptance of the district's school desegregation plan. But in another Barnwell County school district, Blackwell, four Negroes entered white classrooms.

In Arkansas, 11 formerly white districts admitted Negroes for the first time. More of the state's districts are scheduled to drop racial barriers as the week continues.

In Atlanta, Ga., where school desegregation began in 1961, two children of integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. enrolled at a previously white school along with three children of the Rev. Ralph Abernathy, one of King's lieutenants. Integration was accelerated in the city.

At Hayneville, Ala., five Negro pupils who did not show up at a white school as scheduled, Monday were expected today. The slaying of two civil rights workers this year had heightened tensions in Hayneville, and an integrated force of special deputies was on duty at the school.

In Phenix City, on the eastern edge of Alabama, 30 Negro pupils entered previously white schools and at Valdosta, deep in south Georgia, 32 Negroes began attending desegregated classes without trouble.

Plastic Disc In Heart Is Boon to Man

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For the first time in his 21 years, Ronald Hollett is beginning to think seriously about his future.

There wasn't much point in doing so before. Ronnie was born with heart trouble so severe his skin was always blue from lack of oxygen in the blood.

Today, after a first-of-its-kind operation by University of Southern California surgeons, his skin is a normal pink and his doctor says he has an excellent chance for a productive life.

"I keep looking in the mirror and I can't believe it's me," Ronnie said, before returning to his home at Waterford, Calif.

Dr. Jerome Harold Kay of USC says young Hollett is the first to have a new type of disc valve placed in his heart and the fourth to be operated on successfully for a rare defect of the valve between the upper and lower chambers on the right side of the heart.

Because of the inborn defect, Ronnie's heart was never able to pump enough blood through his lungs to pick up an adequate supply of oxygen. Too much kept slipping back through the defective valve and not enough coursed onward.

Eisenhower Has Chat With President LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower called at the White House Monday and chatted for 45 minutes with President Johnson.

Press secretary Bill D. Moyers said the President learned that Eisenhower was in town for a Republican meeting and invited him to stop by. Moyers said the two discussed the steel negotiations, the war in Viet Nam, Latin-American problems and other matters.

Paul Adkins Dies Today In Colorado

Death has claimed a second prominent member of the legal profession this month in Pickaway County.

Mr. Paul E. Adkins, 65, of 610 S. Court St., died 3 a. m. today in Powder Keg Hospital at Ft. Collins, Colo., following a lengthy illness. Less than three weeks ago, Mr. Tom A. Renick, another local attorney, died in Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus.

Mr. Adkins attended Ohio State University, Miami University and received his law degree from Ohio Northern University at Ada, O.

He had been a practicing attorney in Circleville since 1925. He was also a prominent breeder of show horses and running horses.

THE ATTORNEY served as director of the Ohio Horseman and Thoroughbred Assn.

Mr. Adkins was a member of the First Methodist Church. He was a veteran of World War I and World War II, serving with military intelligence.

He is survived by his widow, Miriam Ruggles Adkins; a sister, Mrs. Evelyn A. Morris, Dayton; two nieces, Julia and Melinda Morris; a nephew, George F. Morris; and several cousins.

Services will be 2:30 p. m. Thursday at the Mader Funeral Home. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 4 p. m. Wednesday.

Hamilton Fights Its Police Chief

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — The city of Hamilton has filed a motion, protesting a court order that reinstated Albert J. Osborne as police chief.

E. Hjalmer Persson, city law director, asked Monday for a new trial in the case. Common Pleas Judge Fred B. Cramer last week ordered Osborne reinstated as chief.

Persson claimed that Cramer's decision was not supported by sufficient evidence, was contrary to law and that errors were made during the hearing.

Osborne was fired as chief and demoted to lieutenant June 4 by City Manager C. R. Lukens on grounds of alleged incompetency.

LBJ Pressures For Steel Pact

New Avalanche Threat Looms

SAAS FEE, Switzerland, (AP) — The threat of a second avalanche halted rescue efforts today for 96 power project workers reported buried — and feared dead — under a huge mass of ice in the Swiss Alps.

More than 1,000 rescue workers evacuate the disaster scene after the Allalin Glacier began cracking shortly after dawn.

A dull rumbling sound swept through the valley. Warning sirens sounded.

The giant glacier split Monday and sent millions of tons of ice and rocks crashing down on the power project site.

With the threatened new ice-fall, rescue workers scurried from the danger zone. They had made little headway hacking at the icy debris despite an all night effort, during which they recovered only six bodies.

Scientists at the scene said the cracked parts of the glacier might have to be loosened with mortar shells before digging could be resumed.

Officials said it may take up to two months to recover all the bodies.

About 20 of the construction workers were injured.

"There's no hope for the men under that mass," said one rescue worker. In some places, the rubble of ice and rocks lay more than 100 feet deep.

The avalanche struck near Saas Fee, a ski resort in southern Switzerland less than five miles from the Italian border.

The mass buried men, machines and barracks at the Mattmark power project near the resort.

Some of the ice blocks were as large as two-story houses.

One witness said the avalanche struck so quickly that the workmen, mostly Swiss and Italian, "were buried without even looking up."

Officials said about 1,000 workers were on the 6,000-foot high site when the bottom half of the Allalin Glacier, one of Switzerland's biggest, suddenly broke away, sending millions of tons of ice and rock cascading onto the construction site. The dam itself was saved by an avalanche corridor which channeled most of the tumbling ice past it.

The avalanche occurred shortly before dusk, 30 minutes before a change of workers shifts.

Westinghouse

Aides Returning

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Workers are trickling back to their jobs at the Westinghouse Electric Corp. plant here and company officials expect all 3,000 to return by Thursday.

The call for employees to return to work was issued Monday after union and management apparently solved differences that had caused the plant to be shut down since Friday.

The company had furloughed the workers, charging them with "deliberate damage" to refrigerators on a production line. Local 746 of the International Union of Electrical Workers denied the charge.

Strike Delay Is Secured

Factions Parley Near White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, who won an eight-day postponement of the steel strike threat Monday night, kept up the pressure for a settlement today in his weekly meeting with Democratic congressional leaders.

The party chiefs from the Capitol came out of the break-fast session reporting that the steel situation came in for extensive discussion, and urging that the negotiators stay in session as long as necessary to reach agreement.

They made their remarks to newsmen shortly after representatives of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers union and 10 major firms that produce 80 per cent of America's steel had gone back to the bargaining table near the White House.

"They (negotiations) will continue, hopefully, until a settlement is reached," said White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers.

Less than eight hours after the negotiations were shifted Monday from Pittsburgh to Washington at Johnson's request, agreement was reached to postpone the strike deadline from 12:01 a.m. Wednesday to 12:01 a.m. Sept. 9.

"I am sure that as they return to their negotiations, they will be aware of the importance of their efforts to every man and woman in this country of ours, and to the health and vitality of our economy and the security of America all around the world," Johnson said Monday night.

Johnson announced the postponement over television and radio. Union President I.W. Abel and chief industry negotiator R. Conrad Cooper stood by, smiling. Then the two sides returned to the conference table for a little over an hour before recessing until today.

After the postponement was announced, steel makers promptly began firing up furnaces they had begun to shut down in anticipation of the scheduled strike.

Astronauts Huddling With Space Experts

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

— Astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr., their hearty appetites gradually regaining the weight the pair lost during an epic eight days in space, huddled today with technical and medical experts who sought to learn everything possible about the flight of Gemini 5.

Meanwhile, two other astronauts, Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford, were busy preparing for Gemini 6, less than two months away.

Cooper and Conrad flew to Cape Monday from the aircraft carrier USS Lake Champlain. They had been ferried to the carrier by helicopter after splashing into the Atlantic Ocean at the end of their record mission.

The astronauts immediately were hustled to a medical facility for exhaustive tests which did not disclose any adverse symptoms.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, Gemini flight surgeon, reported the pilots were in extremely good physical condition. He said examinations would continue for weeks in case something shows up later.

Berry said Cooper had gained back 6 of the 7½ pounds he lost during the flight and Conrad 4 of the 8½ he lost. Cooper weighed 152 and Conrad 154 just before launching. Berry attributed the loss to dehydration.

The gain is credited to ample Navy chow aboard the carrier and a trencherman's menu on shore. For lunch Monday the astronauts had big helpings of macaroni and ham. Four dinner it was steak, baked potatoes, string beans and blueberry pie.

Berry said preliminary results indicate man has nothing to worry about medically on short flights to the moon. Eight days is the time planned for the first U.S. manned lunar landing trip in 1969.

Medical and technical reviews will continue at Cape Kennedy until Thursday, when Cooper and Conrad will fly to the Manned Space Center at Houston, Tex., for seven more days of the same.

Cooper said of the extensive briefings: "We hope it will improve the quality of later flights."

Several things went wrong on the Gemini 5 journey. Although the pilots and ground controllers were able to overcome them, engineers don't want them to repeat.

The space agency has placed Cooper and Conrad in seclusion for 11 days. There is a chance they might briefly meet their families when they fly into Houston Thursday. A Cooper-Conrad news conference is scheduled there Sept. 9.

Experts want the time to wring everything they can about the flight from the pilots. The experts said that valuable information was lost after the Gemini 4 flight because astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II were whisked too soon into the whirl of triumphal ceremonies, visits to the White House, Paris and their home towns.

The Titan 2 booster rocket for the Gemini 6 flight, scheduled Oct. 25, was erected on a Cape Kennedy launching pad Monday. The spacecraft will be joined with it in a week or so.

Childless Men Facing Draft

Call May Come By Next Spring

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The boss of U.S. Selective Service says the young men who rushed to tie the knot last week hoping to escape the draft may, after all, end up doing a hitch.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, speaking to civic and business leaders at a luncheon Monday, said married but childless men will be called up as soon as the manpower pool of single 19-year-olds falls short of quotas. That could come as early as next spring, he said.

Addressing himself to the many men who plunged into the sea of matrimony to meet President Johnson's draft-deferment deadline last Thursday at midnight, Hershey said:

"I believe they'll discover they didn't beat any deadline."

"I was amused," he said. "We'll get most of them — in four or five months."

Hershey predicted a general tightening of deferments by local draft boards and said he anticipates standards in qualifying medical examinations will be relaxed. Present, about 53 percent of men are being rejected on their initial physical-mental tests.

He warned that Selective Service officials plan "to take a good look at the fellow who marries some girl and forgets to stay around and provide a home. We're interested in him."

In addition, he said, draft boards might soon decide to conscript students by giving "special exams" or taking a "percentage of certain classes."

Scranton, Bliss Woo GOP's Splinter Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania provided significant support today for Chairman Ray C. Bliss' invitation to splinter groups to come in under the Republican National Committee tent in the 1966 elections.

Bliss told a news conference Monday — after the Republican Policy Coordinating Committee had failed to produce promised statements on civil rights and a balance of payments issue — that he was "fed up with the question of side groups."

Although he once described the conservative Free Society Association formed under the sponsorship of Barry Goldwater, the 1964 GOP presidential nominee, as "harmful" to the party organization, Bliss said he was going to live with this and other groups.

"Once they are formed, I am going to try to find a way to work with them," Bliss said. "I will work with any group that will help elect Republicans."

Scranton, who recently said there was no room in the party for extremists, said in an interview he supports Bliss' position.

"With the exception of a couple of organizations which are not really Republican at all, I believe most of these groups can be melded into the party," he said. "I am in favor of electing Republicans and if they are willing to work on that basis, I think room can be found for them."

But Gov. George Romney of Michigan, along with Scranton a potential candidate for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination, said he is not budging from his position that organizations of the type of Goldwater's Free Society Association tend to weaken the regular party organization.

With obvious reference to Goldwater, Romney told a news conference Monday: "I believe that with the party facing the problem of survival, all of its leaders should concentrate their efforts within the party organization."

Goldwater told a reporter that was just what he was trying to do. He said the Free Society Association would impinge on neither the policy-making nor fund-raising functions of the National Committee.

"I am asking Chairman Bliss what he wants me to do in the 1966 campaign," Goldwater said. "I am willing to help out in any capacity he suggests."

After an evening meeting with Bliss in Goldwater's Washington apartment, the former senator said the Free Society Association was discussed, but that no particular point was made of it. "Ray Bliss and I have never been apart," Goldwater said. "We are working together, we always have been and we will continue to do so."

In a statement, Bliss said much the same thing, but made no mention of the Free Society group.

"Unification of the party and methods by which this might be achieved were uppermost in our frank and friendly discussion," the chairman said. "We agreed that the primary objective of the party is to elect Republicans to office at all levels of government in the 1966 elections. We also agreed that all resources of the party must be directed toward that end."

SAMBURG, Tenn. (AP) — City commissioners Lee Hayes and Lloyd Hayes, brothers, were re-elected to four-year terms in this small Tennessee community recently.

The third member of the commission is Elmer Bunch, a brother-in-law of the Hayes brothers.

The city manager's name is Marvin Hayes. He's another brother.

Astronauts Huddling With Space Experts

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Astronauts L. Gordon Cooper Jr. and Charles Conrad Jr., their hearty appetites gradually regaining the weight the pair lost during an epic eight days in space, huddled today with technical and medical experts who sought to learn everything possible about the flight of Gemini 5.

Meanwhile, two other astronauts, Walter M. Schirra Jr. and Thomas P. Stafford, were busy preparing for Gemini 6, less than two months away.

Cooper and Conrad flew to Cape Monday from the aircraft carrier USS Lake Champlain. They had been ferried to the carrier by helicopter after splashing into the Atlantic Ocean at the end of their record mission.

The astronauts immediately were hustled to a medical facility for exhaustive tests which did not disclose any adverse symptoms.

Dr. Charles A. Berry, Gemini flight surgeon, reported the pilots were in extremely good physical condition. He said examinations would continue for weeks in case something shows up later.

Berry said Cooper had gained back 6 of the 7½ pounds he lost during the flight and Conrad 4 of the 8½ he lost. Cooper weighed 152 and Conrad 154 just before launching. Berry attributed the loss to dehydration.

The gain is credited to ample Navy chow aboard the carrier and a trencherman's menu on shore. For lunch Monday the astronauts had big helpings of macaroni and ham. Four dinner it was steak, baked potatoes, string beans and blueberry pie.

Berry said preliminary results indicate man has nothing to worry about medically on short flights to the moon. Eight days is the time planned for the first U.S. manned lunar landing trip in 1968.

Medical and technical reviews will continue at Cape Kennedy until Thursday, when Cooper and Conrad will fly to the Manned Space Center at Houston, Tex., for seven more days of the same.

Cooper said of the extensive briefings: "We hope it will improve the quality of later flights."

Several things went wrong on the Gemini 5 journey. Although the pilots and ground controllers were able to overcome them, engineers don't want them to repeat.

The space agency has placed Cooper and Conrad in seclusion for 11 days. There is a chance they might briefly meet their families when they fly into Houston Thursday. A Cooper-Conrad news conference is scheduled there Sept. 9.

Experts want the time to writing everything they can about the flight from the pilots. The experts said that valuable information was lost after the Gemini 4 flight because astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II were whisked too soon into the whirl of triumphal ceremonies, visits to the White House, Paris and their home towns.

The Titan 2 booster rocket for the Gemini 6 flight, scheduled Oct. 25, was erected on a Cape Kennedy launching pad Monday. The spacecraft will be joined with it in a week or so.

Childless Men Facing Draft

Call May Come By Next Spring

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The boss of U.S. Selective Service says the young men who rushed to tie the knot last week hoping to escape the draft may, after all, end up doing a hitch.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, speaking to civic and business leaders at a luncheon Monday, said married but childless men will be called up as soon as the manpower pool of single 19-year-olds falls short of quotas. That could come as early as next spring, he said.

Addressing himself to the many men who plunged into the sea of matrimony to meet President Johnson's draft-deferment deadline last Thursday at midnight, Hershey said:

"I believe they'll discover they didn't beat any deadline."

"I was amused," he said. "We'll get most of them — in four or five months."

Hershey predicted a general tightening of deferments by local draft boards and said he anticipates standards in qualifying medical examinations will be relaxed.

present, about 53 percent of men are being rejected on their initial physical-mental tests.

He warned that Selective Service officials plan "to take a good look at the fellow who marries some girl and forgets to stay around and provide a home. We're interested in him."

In addition, he said, draft boards might soon decide to conscript students by giving "special exams" or taking a "percentage of certain classes."

Scranton, Bliss Woo GOP's Splinter Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania provided significant support today for Chairman Ray C. Bliss' invitation to splinter groups to come in under the Republican National Committee tent in the 1966 elections.

Bliss told a news conference Monday — after the Republican Policy Coordinating Committee had failed to produce promised statements on civil rights and a balance of payments issue — that he was "fed up with the question of side groups."

Although he once described the conservative Free Society Association formed under the sponsorship of Barry Goldwater, the 1964 GOP presidential nominee, as "harmful" to the party organization, Bliss said he was going to live with this and other groups.

"Once they are formed, I am going to try to find a way to work with them," Bliss said. "I will work with any group that will help elect Republicans."

Scranton, who recently said there was no room in the party for extremists, said in an interview he supports Bliss' position. "With the exception of a couple of organizations which are not really Republican at all, I believe most of these groups can be melded into the party," he said. "I am in favor of electing Republicans and if they are willing to work on that basis, I think room can be found for them."

But Gov. George Romney of Michigan, along with Scranton a potential candidate for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination, said he is not budging from his position that organizations of the type of Goldwater's Free Society Association tend to weaken the regular party organization.

With obvious reference to Goldwater, Romney told a news conference Monday: "I believe that with the party facing the problem of survival, all of its leaders should concentrate their efforts within the party organization."

Goldwater told a reporter that was just what he was trying to do. He said the Free Society Association would impinge on neither the policy-making nor fund-raising functions of the National Committee.

"I am asking Chairman Bliss what he wants me to do in the 1966 campaign," Goldwater said. "I am willing to help out in any capacity he suggests."

After an evening meeting with Bliss in Goldwater's Washington apartment, the former senator said the Free Society Association was discussed, but that no particular point was made of it.

"Ray Bliss and I have never been apart," Goldwater said. "We are working together, we always have been and we will continue to do so."

In a statement, Bliss said much the same thing, but made no mention of the Free Society group.

"Unification of the party and methods by which this might be achieved were uppermost in our frank and friendly discussion," the chairman said. "We agreed that the primary objective of the party is to elect Republicans to office at all levels of government in the 1966 elections. We also agreed that all resources of the party must be directed toward that end."

Judge To Seek Detention Home

Juvenile-Probate Judge Guy Cline is exploring the possibilities of establishing a juvenile detention home for Pickaway County.

Judge Cline has been interested in the project for several years. He believes that federal and state funds may be available for the institution on a local level.

The judge said Ohio recently received $1 1/2 million in federal funds to be allocated to counties for establishing detention homes where they do not already exist.

Pickaway County's Board of Commissioners has indicated an interest in the project, Judge

Cline said, after discussing the matter with them. The solons gave their approval for Cline to pursue the matter.

ANDREW Maze, juvenile probation officer, was appointed by Judge Cline to investigate the availability of funds from the Ohio Youth Commission in Columbus. Judge Cline indicated the county would like to be placed "on the list for $100,000" although neither he nor Commissioners were aware of how the money is to be distributed.

According to Judge Cline and the juvenile department, a detention home has been needed for some time in Pickaway County. The third floor of the jail is now being used for detention of juveniles.

Information gathered this week is to be aired Tuesday when the Board of Commissioners meet again.

Last Assembly Day May Be Lengthy One

Many Thorny Problems Still To Be Resolved

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio legislators returned to the statehouse today for what is expected to be the final working day of the 106th General Assembly. And it figured to be a long one.

Still to be resolved were many of the thorny problems that faced the lawmakers prior to their recess called three weeks ago to provide a cooling off period.

Chief among them is the legislative reapportionment proposal which was approved by the Republican-controlled House Rules Committee Monday and scheduled for a floor vote today.

By a 7-4 party line vote, the committee recommended adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment over Democratic protests that it "has absolutely no resemblance to the bipartisan proposal" adopted earlier in the Senate.

House Minority Leader A. G. Lancione, D-Belmont, indicated his party would vote it down on the floor. Proposals to amend the constitution require 83 votes — or three-fifths majority — in the House. Republicans have only 75 members; Democrats 62.

House Speaker Roger W. Cloud, R-Logan, disputed Lancione's claim that the proposal differs greatly from the Senate-passed proposal and asserted the committee plan "is as well-written both mechanically and procedurally as it can be."

Also still to be resolved before adoption of a "sine die" adjournment resolution are Senate-House differences over a $278 million capital improvements measure, a bill permitting on-premises sale of beer and liquor at breweries, an omnibus bill creating municipal courts in Fremont, Mason, Vermilion and Bowling Green; and a proposal extending to contractors the 10-year statute of limitation on court actions arising from allegedly faulty construction. Architects and engineers already are covered by the 10-year statute of limitations.

"Sine die" resolutions call for final adjournment two weeks after the last working day.

Under the apportionment plan up for vote today, the figure 175 would be divided into the state's 1960 population (the last U. S. census) to determine a population ratio of about 56,000.

Counties having .85 of a ratio to 1.65 ratios would be entitled to one representative.

Those from 1.65 to 2.50 would be entitled to two representatives.

Those with 2.50 to 3.50, three. Those with 3.50 to 4.50, four. Those with 4.50 to 5.00, five. Counties with more than five full ratios would get one House member for each full ratio.

Provisions for subdividing call for counties with 10 or more representatives to be divided into two districts with an equal number elected in each.

Counties with 20 or more would be divided into four districts, an equal number elected from each. In cases where an equal number is not possible, the proposal requires a variation of no more than one representative.

Akron Flier Is Prisoner Of Enemy for Second Time

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—"I have never given up hope, as I felt the Lord would take care of him," an Akron mother said Monday when told her missing son was reported alive but a war prisoner a second time.

Radio Hanoi broadcast pictures and news reports on Air Force Capt. Richard P. Keirn, 41, of Akron and Robert Norlan Daugerty, 31, of Eagle Pass, Tex. It reported both were captured after their planes were downed over North Viet Nam.

Keirn's mother, Mrs. Paul Keirn, said after receiving the news that she would call her son's wife, who lives at Mac-Dill Air Force Base at Tampa, Fla.

Keirn was downed over Germany during World War II and spent nearly two years in a prison camp.

The Hanoi broadcast included a tape-recorded statement it said was made by Keirn. The statement gave this account:

"I took off from Ubon Air Base in Thailand on the 24th of July, 1965. I was shot down on a cover mission over North Viet Nam. I landed in a bamboo grove on a side of a mountain and in the rain. I could not keep dry. I was severely wounded in the left leg and my right knee was very numb. I had received burns on the right side of my face. I attempted to hide, but was not able to move very well.

"I was captured shortly thereafter by several Vietnamese people. They took me to a small farm community. They dressed my wounds temporarily and I was taken from this point to a military installation where I was held for approximately two hours. From there I was taken to this camp where I have been well treated. The medical aid to recover my wounds has been very adequate. The burns on my face have recovered very well, my left leg has also recovered.

"I feel that the Vietnamese people are very humane in their treatment toward me."

Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, junta president, made the announcement Monday night in a surprise radio-television broadcast.

Imbert said the five-man junta and the Cabinet would resign as soon as the provisional government takes office, probably by midweek.

The announcement climaxed weeks of thorny negotiations by the OAS political committee headed by U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker.

The only member of the government not to sign the resignation document was Commodore Francisco J. Rivera, 36, armed forces secretary, regarded as boss of the Dominican military.

The reason for Rivera Caminero's failure to sign could not be determined immediately, but the junta and the military were reported at odds over the OAS peace formula.

It was learned during the week that Rivera Caminero and the military chiefs of staff were more favorably disposed toward signing the modified version of the OAS formula than the junta.

The armed forces leaders, it was reported, had conferred during the past week with the provisional president designate, Hector Garcia Godoy, on modifications suggested by the rebel regime.

Imbert, it was also known, was under pressures from various political quarters not to accept the revised peace plan.

Factors in the resignation, high sources said, were the army's refusal to go along with this position and President Johnson's announcement that the U.S. government supported the OAS peace formula.

Battle of Band Mothers Slated on CHS Gridiron

THE TEAMS — Members of the "Has Had Its" and the "Kant Hardleys" get together for a practice session in preparation for the big game Friday at the annual Circleville High School Band and Football preview.

Football will be introduced to Circleville High School grid fans in a startling fashion 8 p.m. Friday at the annual Band and Gridiron Preview.

As a part of this year's program, the "Has Had Its" will play the "Kant Hardleys" in a battle of the Band Mothers.

The Band Mothers annually sponsor the Band and Football Preview as their lone fund raising project.

Members of the band and CHS footballers are introduced to the public during the Preview.

RULES of the Ohio High School Athletic Assn. forbid the football team from participating in any scrimmage sessions at the Preview. But the regulations say nothing about the mothers.

Here is the combined roster of the "Has Had Its" and the "Kant Hardley" teams:

Flash Kaylor, Leaping Lena Congrove, Butterfingers Brehmer, Dynamite Painter, Bull-dozer Plum, Tag-A-Long Stout, Gibraltar Ralston, Terrible Tessie Eberly, Go Go White, Slow Poke Davis, Hawkeye Hawkes, Mighty Millie Ayers, Speedy Grigg, Flop-A-Long McFadden, Fumbles Wloughby, Bullet Eblin, La Klootch McCoskey, Wildfire Crabtree, Pokey Flaker, Slappy Liz Brobst, Screwy Martin, Midnight Stonerock, Slow Go Cook, Shorty Benzenburg, Tuffy Gentzle, Cut-

The guidelines are based on federal estimates that production per man hour has been rising at the rate of 3.2 per cent per year and that industry therefore can raise wages that much without boosting prices.

A 3.2-per cent wage increase would amount to about 14 cents per hour added to present wages and fringe benefits averaging $4.40 per hour for the approximately 450,000 steelworkers involved.

"He (Johnson) realizes concessions will be necessary from both sides," Moyers said.

MIAMI, Fla., (AP) — Hurricane Betsy remained nearly stationary 900 miles east of Florida early today while weathermen considered whether to dilute her strength by seeding.

Gordon Dunn, head of the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said Betsy is out there "not bothering anyone."

Scientists with Project Storm-fury flew to Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico, where a decision was to be made soon on an attempt to feed the hurricane silver iodide crystals.

Such crystals would, weathermen hope, condense moisture-laden winds to rain and thus break up Betsy's destructive formation. So far, hurricane seeding has not proven conclusively effective.

Dunn said the storm would remain mostly stationary until noon today then begin drifting to the northwest.

The Weather Bureau said Betsy posed no threat to land areas today or Wednesday.

Reagan-Bircher Deal Confirmed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The president of the California Republican Assembly has confirmed that he heard actor Ronald Reagan say that John Birch Society's national public relations director offered to help Reagan's campaign for governor.

The assembly president, Cyril Stevenson Jr., said Monday: "I regret the information had to become public."

Mrs. Jane Alexander of San Carlos, a director-at-large of the assembly, said last week she heard Reagan claim that John Rousselot had offered to support or attack Reagan, whichever would be most helpful to his campaign for the GOP nomination.

Last Assembly Day May Be Lengthy One

Many Thorny Problems Still To Be Resolved

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio legislators returned to the statehouse today for what is expected to be the final working day of the 106th General Assembly. And it figured to be a long one.

Still to be resolved were many of the thorny problems that faced the lawmakers prior to their recess called three weeks ago to provide a cooling off period.

Chief among them is the legislative reapportionment proposal which was approved by the Republican-controlled House Rules Committee Monday and scheduled for a floor vote today.

By a 7-4 party line vote, the committee recommended adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment over Democratic protests that it "has absolutely no resemblance to the bipartisan proposal" adopted earlier in the Senate.

House Minority Leader A. G. Lancione, D-Belmont, indicated his party would vote it down on the floor. Proposals to amend the constitution require 83 votes — or three-fifths majority — in the House. Republicans have only 75 members; Democrats 62.

House Speaker Roger W. Cloud, R-Logan, disputed Lancione's claim that the proposal differs greatly from the Senate-passed proposal and asserted the committee plan "is as well-written both mechanically and procedurally as it can be."

Also still to be resolved before adoption of a "sine die" adjournment resolution are Senate-House differences over a $278 million capital improvement measure, a bill permitting on-premises sale of beer and liquor at breweries, an omnibus bill creating municipal courts in Fremont, Mason, Vermilion and Bowling Green; and a proposal extending to contractors the 10-year statute of limitation on court actions arising from allegedly faulty construction. Architects and engineers already are covered by the 10-year statute of limitations.

"Sine die" resolutions call for final adjournment two weeks after the last working day.

Under the apportionment plan up for vote today, the figure 175 would be divided into the state's 1960 population (the last U. S. census) to determine a population ratio of about 56,000.

Counties having .85 of a ratio to 1.65 ratios would be entitled to one representative.

Those from 1.65 to 2.50 would be entitled to two representatives. Those with 2.50 to 3.50, three. Those with 3.50 to 4.50, four. Those with 4.50 to 5.00, five. Counties with more than five full ratios would get one House member for each full ratio.

Provisions for subdividing call for counties with 10 or more representatives to be divided into two districts with an equal number elected in each. Counties with 20 or more would be divided into four districts, an equal number elected from each. In cases where an equal number is not possible, the proposal requires a variation of no more than one representative.

Akron Flier Is Prisoner Of Enemy for Second Time

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—"I have never given up hope, as I felt the Lord would take care of him," an Akron mother said Monday when told her missing son was reported alive but a war prisoner a second time.

Radio Hanoi broadcast pictures and news reports on Air Force Capt. Richard P. Keirn, 41, of Akron and Robert Norlan Daugerty, 31, of Eagle Pass, Tex. It reported both were captured after their planes were downed over North Viet Nam.

Keirn's mother, Mrs. Paul Keirn, said after receiving the news that she would call her son's wife, who lives at Mac-Dill Air Force Base at Tampa, Fla.

Keirn was downed over Germany during World War II and spent nearly two years in a prison camp.

The Hanoi broadcast included a tape-recorded statement it said was made by Keirn. The statement gave this account:

"I took off from Ubon Air Base in Thailand on the 24th of July, 1965. I was shot down on a cover mission over North Viet Nam. I landed in a bamboo grove on a side of a mountain and in the rain. I could not keep dry. I was severely wounded in the left leg and my right knee was very numb. I had received burns on the right side of my face. I attempted to hide, but was not able to move very well.

"I was captured shortly thereafter by several Vietnamese people. They took me to a small farm community. They dressed my wounds temporarily and I was taken from this point to a military installation where I was held for approximately two hours. From there I was taken to this camp where I have been well treated. The medical aid to recover my wounds has been very adequate. The burns on my face have recovered very well, my left leg has also recovered.

"I feel that the Vietnamese people are very humane in their treatment toward me."

Dominican Junta Resigns

OAS Proposal Is Given Nod

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The chief of the Dominican junta has announced that the civilian-military body is resigning to make way for a provisional regime proposed by the Organization of American States.

Brig. Gen. Antonio Imbert Barreras, junta president, made the announcement Monday night in a surprise radio-television broadcast.

Imbert said the five-man junta and the Cabinet would resign as soon as the provisional government takes office, probably by midweek.

The announcement climaxed weeks of thorny negotiations by the OAS political committee headed by U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker.

The only member of the government not to sign the resignation document was Commodore Francisco J. Rivera, 36, armed forces secretary, regarded as boss of the Dominican military.

The reason for Rivera Caminero's failure to sign could not be determined immediately, but the junta and the military were reported at odds over the OAS peace formula.

It was learned during the week that Rivera Caminero and the military chiefs of staff were more favorably disposed toward signing the modified version of the OAS formula than the junta. The armed forces leaders, it was reported, had conferred during the past week with the provisional president designate, Hector Garcia Godoy, on modifications suggested by the rebel regime.

Imbert, it was also known, was under pressures from various political quarters not to accept the revised peace plan. Factors in the resignation, high sources said, were the army's refusal to go along with this position and President Johnson's announcement that the U.S. government supported the OAS peace formula.

The delay in the strike deadline therefore, was regarded as only a temporary reprieve, pending the final revelation of what the next wage package is going to cost the steel industry.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 333.1 with industrials up .2, rails off .1 and utilities off .2.

Some Wall Street comment was to the effect that the steel industry will have a hard time to absorb a new package of improved wages, pension and insurance benefits without a reduction in profit margins.

Battle of Band Mothers Slated on CHS Gridiron

THE TEAMS — Members of the "Has Had Its" and the "Kant Hardleys" get together for a practice session in preparation for the big game Friday at the annual Circleville High School Band and Football preview.

Football will be introduced to Circleville High School grid fans in a starting fashion 8 p. m. Friday at the annual Band and Gridiron Preview.

As a part of this year's program, the "Has Had Its" will play the "Kant Hardleys" in a battle of the Band Mothers.

The Band Mothers annually sponsor the Band and Football Preview as their lone fund raising project.

Members of the band and CHS footballers are introduced to the public during the Preview.

... ..

RULES of the Ohio High School Athletic Assn. forbid the football team from participating in any scrimmage sessions at the Preview. But the regulations say nothing about the mothers.

Here is the combined roster of the "Has Had Its" and the "Kant Hardley" teams:

Flash Kaylor, Leaping Lena Congrove, Butterfingers Brehmer, Dynamite Painter, Bulldozer Plum, Tag-A-Long Stout, Gibraltar Ralston, Terrible

Tessie Eberly, Go Go White, Slow Poke Davis, Hawkeye Hawkes, Mighty Millie Ayers, Speedy Grigg, Flop-A-Long McFadden, Fumbles Willoughby, Bullet Eblin, La Klootch McCoskey, Wildfire Crabtree, Pokey Flaker, Slappy Liz Brobst, Serewy Martin, Midnight Stonerock, Slow Go Cook, Shorty Benzenburg, Tuffy Gentzle, Cutie Goodman and Lightning Long.

Officials for the game include Hanky Panky Downing and Lazy Bones Evans. The water boy is Pete Seward and the physician on call is Doc Pontious.

Members of the Tiger coaching staff are reportedly tutoring the teams.

Reagan-Bircher Deal Confirmed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The president of the California Republican Assembly has confirmed that he and actor Ronald Reagan say that John Birch Society's national public relations director offered to help Reagan's campaign for governor.

The assembly president, Cyril Stevenson Jr., said Monday: "I regret the information had to become public."

Mrs. Jane Alexander of San Carlos, a director-at-large of the assembly, said last week she heard Reagan claim that John Rousselet had offered to support or attack Reagan, which ever would be most helpful to his campaign for the GOP nomination.

Hurricane May Receive Science Test

MIAMI, Fla., (AP) — Hurricane Betsy remained nearly stationary 900 miles east of Florida early today while weathermen considered whether to dilute her strength by seeding.

Gordon Dunn, head of the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said Betsy is out there "not bothering anyone."

Scientists with Project Stormfury flew to Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico, where a decision was to be made soon on an attempt to feed the hurricane silver iodide crystals.

Such crystals would, weathermen hope, condense moisture-laden winds to rain and thus break up Betsy's destructive formation. So far, hurricane seeding has not proven conclusively effective.

Dunn said the storm would remain mostly stationary until noon today then begin drifting to the northwest.

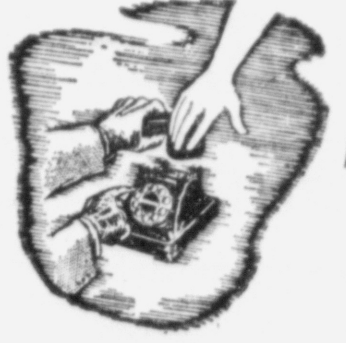

The Weather Bureau said Betsy posed no threat to land areas today or Wednesday.

How Can You 'Haze' a Sea Otter?

ANCHITKA Island, Alaska, (AP) — Seismic experts and engineers are getting this windswept Aleutian island ready for an underground nuclear explosion — and their biggest problem at the moment is how to scare the sea otters away. Once nearly extinct from pelt hunting, sea otters have been making a comeback in the island's rocky coves. Nearly 3,000 of them, which wildlife experts estimate is one-tenth of the world population, live here. Marine biologists don't know what effect the 80-kiloton blast, scheduled tentatively for late October or early November, will have on the otters. They don't want them to leave the island for good. They do want them out of the way during the tests.

So Uncle Sam has a new kind of operation on his hands here: sea otter hazing. How do you haze a sea otter? Well, for one thing, you fire a carbide cannon over his cove. This has had some success, but the otters don't seem to stay away quite long enough. So a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service task force tried firing giant firecrackers at the otters with shotguns. It also is experimenting with skyrockets and thinking of hovering helicopters.

The blast, to be set off 2,300 feet down, is expected to melt a cave 400 to 600 feet in diameter in the bed rock. The main recording will be done at a 10,000-square-mile seismic research station near Miles City, Mont. The purpose of the blast is to enable scientists to pinpoint nuclear explosions and tell them from earthquakes through seismic readings.

'Auctioneer' Rhodes Gets High Prices

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes, who last year won an honorary license as an auctioneer at the Ohio State Fair's junior cattle sale, put it to use Monday night and presided over this year's sale.

The governor coaxed prices to high levels—the highest being $4,380 to pretty 17-year-old Carolyn Jelley of Shelby County, near Sidney, for her 4-H grand champion Angus steer. The bid of $4.02 a pound by Liberal Markets of Dayton for the 900-pound steer also included the 190-pound weight of the governor, who stood on the scales with the Angus. Monday's attendance, said by Fair Manager E. J. Keirns to have been 56,484, was well ahead of the first Monday crowd of 33,861 last year.

An estimated 15,000 of the fair visitors turned out for the Andy Williams variety show and Keirns said it was the biggest crowd ever to turn out for any grandstand show.

The show produced what some spectators said was a show of temper by the singing star when he tossed a microphone away because he was getting a feedback from it. Keirns said such reports were exaggerated.

Today is being observed as "Dayton Day," "Fraternal and Service Club Day," and "Ohio Festivals and Events Day."

In addition to getting the top price for Miss Jelley's Angus, the governor drew $2.30 a pound for 19-year-old Tom Tomskey's champion shorthorn. Tom lives in Montgomery County. The reserve Angus champion of 18-year-old Joe Gordon of Logan County went for $1.50 a pound.

7th District Dems Decline Endorsement

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Democratic chairmen and secretaries from the eight counties of Ohio's 7th congressional district declined Monday night to endorse a candidate to succeed U.S. Rep. Clarence J. Brown, Republican who died last week. But they named three persons who were being considered for the endorsement.

State Democratic Chairman William Coleman, acting as a spokesman, said the group will make an endorsement as soon as Gov. James A. Rhodes makes up his mind about whether to call a special election this year.

Coleman charged that the governor was derelict in failing to announce by this time whether there would be an election this year and urged him to make the announcement soon.

In Columbus, meanwhile, a spokesman for Rhodes said the governor probably will call "sometime this week" for the special election. Rhodes presumably would schedule special primaries so that Brown's successor could be elected in November.

Named Monday night as possible candidates were James A. Berry, 35, Clark County prosecutor; Jerry R. Graham, 28, who ran against Brown last year, and Joseph Sheridan, who is working on his doctorate at American University in Washington and is a temporary staff worker in the juvenile court system at Arlington, Va.

Sheridan lives in Fairborn, Greene County.

Cincy Church Factions To Seek Accord

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, pastor of Revelation Baptist Church, and dissident members of his congregation will attempt to settle their differences out of court.

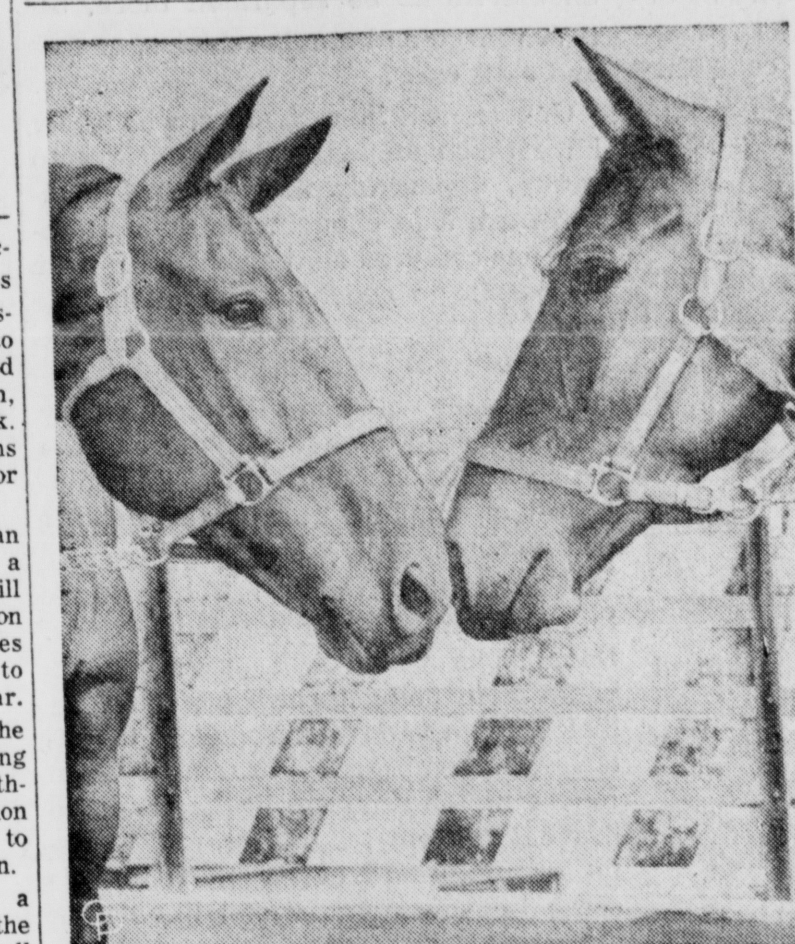

This was announced Monday by Common Pleas Judge Otis R. Hess following a 27-minute pretrial conference with lawyers of both sides.

Dissident members of Shuttlesworth's congregation have charged the minister with being too "dictatorial" in church affairs. They were issued a court order prohibiting Shuttlesworth from spending church funds.

Shuttlesworth countered by securing his own court order forbidding the dissidents from interfering with church business. The order also requested them not to interfere with Sunday morning services.

Judge Hess said "all material matters have been amicably resolved." It was agreed that each side will name representatives to conduct an audit of church funds and to preside over church meetings.

Short-Skirted Secretaries Are Chided

LONDON (AP)—Tailor and Cutter—which calls itself the authority on style and clothes—took an editorial swipe today at short-skirted secretaries who demand modesty boards.

A modesty board is a strip of wood across the front of a secretary's desk. A recent poll of British secretaries showed that the majority want modesty boards to prevent revealing too much leg.

"Women resort to any trick in order to attract a man's attention," said Tailor and Cutter, "and then they get morally affront when you look."

"All they are after with their little short skirts and their modesty boards is power without responsibility."

The short-short skirts, much in vogue in Britain now, present special problems when the wearers sit down. The skirts ride high and expose a great deal of the wearer.

U.S. Is Tenth To OK International Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has become the tenth signer of an international agreement designed to settle disputes between private investors and governments of foreign countries where they invest.

The convention will go into effect when it has been ratified by 20 governments which are members of the World Bank. Previous signers were the Central African Republic, Ivory Coast, Jamaica, Mauritania, Niger, Nigeria, Pakistan, Tunisia and the United Kingdom.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Today is Tuesday, Aug. 31, the 243rd day of 1965. There are 122 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1902, the Danbury (Conn.) Thatters' suit was brought against labor union members by companies claiming to have been damaged by their boycott. Damages were awarded to the companies and the Supreme Court upheld the decision in 1905.

On this date In 1654, the Rhode Island Assembly banned the sale of liquor to Indians.

In 1898, the first professional football game was played at Latrobe, Pa.

In 1914, German forces defeated the Russians in the Battle of Tannenberg.

In 1925, Omdr. John Rodgers and a crew of five took off from San Francisco in their Navy seaplane PN9 aiming for Hawaii. Forced down 400 miles from the islands, the heroic Rodgers sailed the plane like a boat for nine days until it was sighted by a submarine.

In 1942, Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel launched his final offensive in Egypt.

Ten years ago — the Navy's supercarrier Forrestal returned to port at Newport News, Va., after a first trial run: two of the propellers failed when a main bearing melted.

Five years ago—Secretary of State Christian Herter declared that a policy statement by the Organization of American States foreign ministers meeting in San Jose, Costa Rica, was a clear indictment of the Castro government of Cuba.

One year ago—Integration of schools below the college level began in Mississippi with Negroes entering the first grade in Biloxi.

New York Law Curbs Misleading Businesses

NEW YORK (AP) — Starting Wednesday, state law will forbid companies from suggesting that they are agents of the federal or New York state governments.

The statute was enacted by the 1965 legislature. The law authorizes the secretary of state to deny charters to companies which filed applications with misleading business names.

Miami River Is Object Of Survey

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Weather permitting, engineers and hydrologists of the U.S. Geological Survey, in cooperation with the Miami Conservancy District, will make another time of travel measurement Wednesday of the Great Miami River from Dayton to Cleves in Hamilton County.

Engineers will place bright red dye into the river at nine sites from Dayton to New Baltimore in Hamilton County. Studies of the dye will result in more accurate predictions of travel time of the water and time of passage past selected points.

The dye is harmless to people, fish and plants. When first injected at each site, the river will be a very bright red, and then gradually fade to a dull crimson, then to pink before disappearing completely by the time it has travelled about a third of the distance to the next downstream injection site.

One of the results of the tests will be determination of river capacities to assimilate wastes under varying river conditions.

Kentucky Is Advised To Conserve Water

FRANKFORT, (AP) — Gov. Edward T. Breathitt says Kentucky must not become complacent because of its abundance of water.

He told about 1,000 boating enthusiasts at the third annual Kentucky Admirals' Picnic recently that this generation must promote water conservation "so that succeeding generations will have water to drink, to generate power and to irrigate land." The governor said the demand for water will double in 1980.

Turks Due To Benefit From U.S. Aid Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — One hundred and thirty cities and towns in Turkey are to get electric power over transmission lines built with U.S. assistance. A loan of $6.4 million has been approved by the Agency for International Development. More than 1,200,000 Turks will benefit from the project.

October or early November, will have on the otters. They don't want them to leave the island for good. They do want them out of the way during the tests.

So Uncle Sam has a new kind of operation on his hands here: sea otter hazing.

How do you haze a sea otter? Well, for one thing, you fire a carbide cannon over his cove. This has had some success, but the otters don't seem to stay away quite long enough. So a U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service task force tried firing giant firecrackers at the otters with shotguns. It also is experimenting with skyrockets and thinking of hovering helicopters.

The blast, to be set off 2,300 feet down, is expected to melt a cave 400 to 600 feet in diameter in the bed rock.

The main recording will be done at a 10,000-square-mile seismic research station near Miles City, Mont. The purpose of the blast is to enable scientists to pinpoint nuclear explosions and tell them from earthquakes through seismic readings.

'Auctioneer' Rhodes Gets High Prices

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes, who last year won an honorary license as an auctioneer at the Ohio State Fair's junior cattle sale, put it to use Monday night and presided over this year's sale.

The governor coaxed prices to high levels—the highest being $4,380 to pretty 17-year-old Carolyn Jelley of Shelby County, near Sidney, for her 4-H grand champion angus steer.

The bid of $4.02 a pound by Liberal Markets of Dayton for the 900-pound steer also included the 190-pound weight of the governor, who stood on the scales with the angus.

Monday's attendance, said by Fair Manager E. J. Keirns to have been 56,484, was well ahead of the first Monday crowd of 33,861 last year.

An estimated 15,000 of the fair visitors turned out for the Andy Williams variety show and Keirns said it was the biggest crowd ever to turn out for any grandstand show.

The show produced what some spectators said was a show of temper by the singing star when he tossed a microphone away because he was getting a feedback from it. Keirns said such reports were exaggerated.

Today is being observed as "Dayton Day," "Fraternal and Service Club Day," and "Ohio Festivals and Events Day."

In addition to getting the top price for Miss Jelley's angus, the governor drew $2.30 a pound for 19-year-old Tom Tomskey's champion shorthorn. Tom lives in Montgomery County. The reserve angus champion of 18-year-old Joe Gordon of Logan County went for $1.50 a pound.

7th District Dems Decline Endorsement

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Democratic chairmen and secretaries from the eight counties of Ohio's 7th congressional district declined Monday night to endorse a candidate to succeed U.S. Rep. Clarence J. Brown, Republican who died last week. But they named three persons who were being considered for the endorsement.

State Democratic Chairman William Coleman, acting as a spokesman, said the group will make an endorsement as soon as Gov. James A. Rhodes makes up his mind about whether to call a special election this year.

Coleman charged that the governor was derelict in failing to announce by this time whether there would be an election this year and urged him to make the announcement soon.

In Columbus, meanwhile, a spokesman for Rhodes said the governor probably will call "sometime this week" for the special election.

Rhodes presumably would schedule special primaries so that Brown's successor could be elected in November.

Named Monday night as possible candidates were James A. Berry, 35, Clark County prosecutor; Jerry R. Graham, 28, who ran against Brown last year, and Joseph Sheridan, who is working on his doctorate at American University in Washington and is a temporary staff worker in the juvenile court system at Arlington, Va.

Sheridan lives in Fairborn, Greene County.

Cincy Church Factions To Seek Accord

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth, pastor of Revelation Baptist Church, and dissident members of his congregation will attempt to settle their differences out of court.

This was announced Monday by Common Pleas Judge O. T. R. Hess following a 27-minute pretrial conference with lawyers of both sides.

Dissident members of Shuttlesworth's congregation have charged the minister with being too "dictatorial" in church affairs. They were issued a court order prohibiting Shuttlesworth from spending church funds.

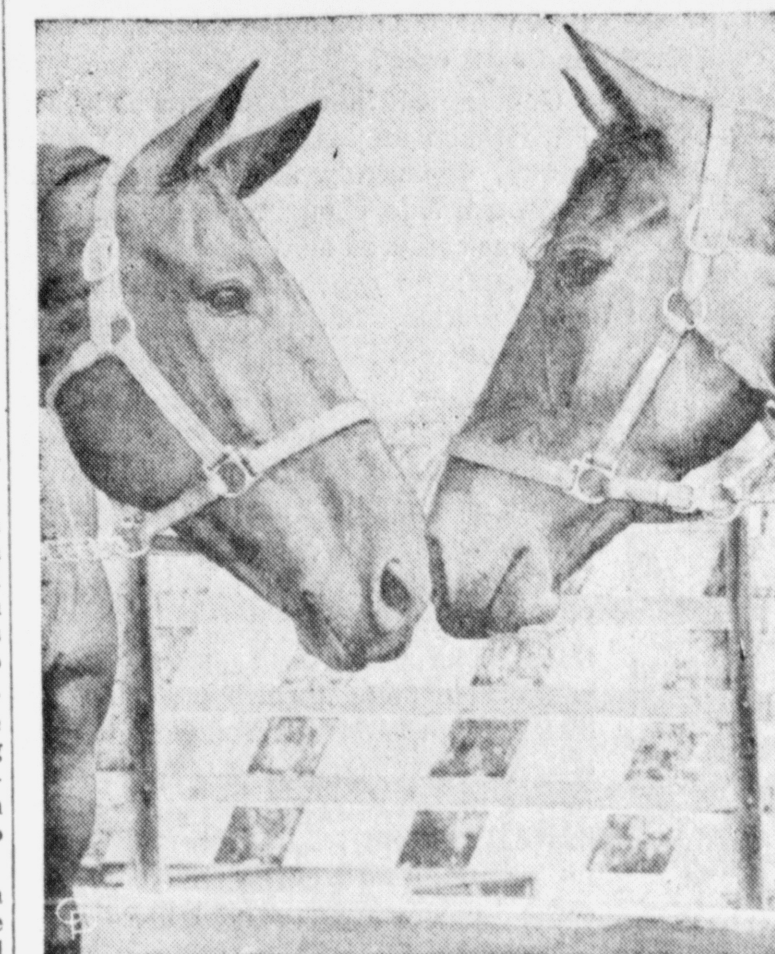

Shuttlesworth countered by securing his own court order forbidding the dissidents from interfering with church business. The order also requested them not to interfere with Sunday morning services.

Judge Hess said "all material matters have been amicably resolved."

It was agreed that each side will name representatives to conduct an audit of church funds and to preside over church meetings.

The Child Study League will meet Sept. 8, instead of Sept. 15 as previously announced at the home of Mrs. John Steinhauer.

The Senior MYF met at the home of Barbara Jo McDill, with several members and counselors present. Participating were Marsha Reynolds, Lynn Straley, Diane, Dick and Don Cook, Tom and Andy Ham-

Clark Hunsicker and Mrs. Ronald Beatty, Rev. and Mrs. Norman Williams and Andy and Mr. and Mrs. Don McDill and Nancy and Beverly.

An election of officers was held. Named for the coming year were: Roger Clark, president; Nancy Fenstermaker, vice president; Lynn Straley, secretary; Marsha Reynolds, treasurer; Diane Cook, new reporter.

Pizza, potato chips, lemonade, and iced tea were served by the hostess, assisted by Lynn Straley.

Recreation was enjoyed at the close of the meeting. The group held a swimming party Sunday at Lake Hill, Frankfurt.

Short-Skirted Secretaries Are Chided

LONDON (AP)—Tailor and Cutter—which calls itself the authority on style and clothes—took an editorial swipe today at short-skirted secretaries who demand modesty boards.

A modesty board is a strip of wood across the front of a secretary's desk. A recent poll of British secretaries showed that the majority want modesty boards to prevent revealing too much leg.

"Women resort to any trick in order to attract a man's attention," said Tailor and Cutter, "and then they get morally affronted when you look."

"All they are after with their little short skirts and their modesty boards is power without responsibility."

The short-skirt skirts, much in vogue in Britain now, present special problems when the wearers sit down. The skirts ride high and expose a great deal of the wearer.

U.S. Is Tenth To OK International Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has become the tenth signer of an international agreement designed to settle disputes between private investors and governments of foreign countries where they invest.

The convention will go into effect when it has been ratified by 20 governments which are members of the World Bank. Previous signers were the Central African Republic, Ivory Coast, Jamaica, Mauritania, Niger, Nigeria, Pakistan, Tunisia and the United Kingdom.

TODAY In History

Miami River Is Object Of Survey

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Weather permitting, engineers and hydrologists of the U.S. Geological Survey, in cooperation with the Miami Conservancy District, will make another time of travel measurement Wednesday of the Great Miami River from Dayton to Cleves in Hamilton County.

Engineers will place bright red dye into the river at nine sites from Dayton to New Baltimore in Hamilton County. Studies of the dye will result in more accurate predictions of travel time of the water and time of passage past selected points.

The dye is harmless to people, fish and plants. When first injected at each site, the river will be a very bright red, and then gradually fade to a dull crimson, then to pink before disappearing completely by the time it has travelled about a third of the distance to the next downstream injection site.

One of the results of the tests will be determination of river capacities to assimilate wastes under varying river conditions.

Kentucky Is Advised To Conserve Water

FRANKFORT, (AP) — Gov. Edward T. Breathitt says Kentucky must not become complacent because of its abundance of water.

He told about 1,000 boating enthusiasts at the third annual Kentucky Admirals' Picnic recently that this generation must promote water conservation "so that succeeding generations will have water to drink, to generate power and to irrigate land." The governor said the demand for water will double in 1980.

'Selling' Safety

Automobile accidents can only be described as a disease of modern transportation. Like the common cold, they can strike almost anyone at any time, and their causes frequently are mysterious.

But the constantly increasing popularity of the automobile as the number one transportation medium in the United States has brought the accident toll to an intolerable level, although the accident rate per miles traveled is declining.

There are 50,000 deaths a year, many hundreds of thousands are injured — many permanently crippled — and the millions of dollars in property damage is sending insurance rates soaring.

The question facing automobile manufacturers, health officials and medical science is how to cut the total, without restricting too greatly rights of car drivers and owners. Curtailing driving privileges of a large part of the populace might or might not reduce accidents considerably.

The automobile is too much of a necessity to give serious consideration to repealing the right to drive. Except for motorists who have proven to be menaces on the highway. Driver education and testing will contribute to improved driving abilities, but it must be elsewhere that significant progress will be made in any war on accidents and their toll in human life.

Modern highways, designed and built for the fast flow of heavy traffic, are safer in many ways than roads formerly were. But are they safe enough?

Should traffic be separated more, between large and small vehicles, or fast and slow ones?

Government investigators, who lately have taken an active interest in auto safety, apparently are satisfied highways are safe enough, for their attention has centered on the vehicle. How is it possible to construct an automobile so no matter what happens to it occupants will not be seriously injured?

This is the question the auto industry is being asked to answer by a Congress which seems inclined to legislate safety into automobiles if necessary, and if possible.

Many improvements could be made to automobiles to make them safer. Door locks which will prevent occupants from being thrown from the vehicles, foam padding throughout the interior, an emergency braking system (operating on separate brake drums to prevent fadeout), lights designed solely for maximum safety — these are some improvements which have been suggested.

Many of these would add significantly to a car's price tag; others might hurt the saleability of a vehicle. The balance between safety and public acceptance is never easy to find. That the burden is now directed almost entirely on the automobile industry is perhaps an unfair approach.

But somewhere there must be a serious beginning, if the accident toll is to be reduced. And hardly anyone uses the word "if" any more.

Tossing Out Restraints

How many times in a lifetime does one have to say, "This is where I came in?"

It seems only yesterday (though actually it was some thirty years ago) that a venerable socialist organization, the League for Industrial Democracy, was sponsoring a youth group called the National Student Union. This youth group, though Marxist, was supposed to keep within the bounds of legal protest and parliamentary action, for its parent, known far and wide in the radical movement by its initials as the LID, believed in orderly, or non-Leninist, change. In the late Thirties, however, the National Student Union began a dalliance with Leninist direct action tactics. The LID dropped it like a hot potato. For a time it was taken up, in all innocence, by Eleanor Roosevelt, but she, in turn, edged away from it. And during the great stress of World War II the National Student Union was deservedly forgotten.

The old LID managed to struggle along with no effective youth movement until a few years ago, when it decided to punch up its "student department" as Students for a Democratic Society. This SDS grew rapidly as the civil rights movement caught the imagination of young people on the campuses. Soon there were sixty chapters, with projects for leadership training institutes and trips to Mississippi.

But history was about to repeat itself. Last June, at its Michigan conference, the SDS did the sort of thing the old National Student Union had made a decision to be "activist" even if it involved getting heads broken in illegal scuffles with the police or interfering with the progress of the war in Vietnam. And it decided to strike out opposition to Communism as such from its membership cards.

All of this provoked a crisis with its parent body, the old LID. But this time the LID directorate and national council reacted in a nifty way toward its obstreperous offspring. Where, in the late Nineteen Thirties, it had cut all connections with the National Student Union for getting into bed with the Communists, this time it merely passed a resolution calling for a "dialogue" on the real meaning of the word "democracy."

Thus, in the words of some of the LID dissidents who think the students' organization should be disciplined for going over to "Leninist" tactics, the venerable LID, supporter of legal Social Democratic means of change for over a half century, has "marched up the hill and marched down again" on an issue that cuts close to its very reason for being.

The crisis in the LID has provoked a lot of internal clucking. A faculty sponsor of Students for a Democratic Society who wishes his name withheld until he sees what action the LID will finally take, has denounced the SDS for becoming part of the Maoist establishment in the United States while using the respectable LID name as a cover. Murray Baron, a labor relations adviser who has been a member of the governing board of the LID, has quit in disgust. And there have been agitated memos sent to various board members and to Marx Lewis of the LID National Council, who, ironically, also happens to be a moving spirit in something that is known as the Council Against Communist Aggression.

Quarrels on the Left may seem of little importance to the great body of American citizens. But the crisis in the LID over what is happening in its youth group has dangerous implications simply because the LID board of directors and national council are spangled with people who hold important positions in the AFL-CIO, in the universities, in such organizations as CORE, and in the Democratic Administration is anti-poverty program. These include professors such as Sidney Hook of New York University, Negro leaders such as James Farmer, union men such as Victor Reuther, anti-Communist authors such as Harry Overstreet, and official advisers on poverty such as Michael Harrington. The LID has always repudiated Bolshevism and neo-anarchist methods. If it is now prepared to go along with a Maoist youth movement some old and vitally important democratic restraints will have been thrown to the winds.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

WHEN Bob Benchley took his wife on a trip or vacation anywhere at all, it invariably developed that she had no faith whatever in his sense of direction. She never stopped urging "Just to be sure, ask that man over there."

To cure her, Benchley began PRETENDING to ask directions—then deliberately would wheel their car around and proceed in the direction opposite where they were supposed to go. After ending in the middle of nowhere five or six times in succession, Mrs. Benchley got the general idea. "Never again," she vowed, "will I trust a stranger's directions!"

"I am making a picture of God," announced a clear-eyed little boy. "But you can't do that," protested his father. "Nobody knows what God looks like." "They will," said the boy, "as soon as I get this picture done!"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

A recent column urging you to take off those extra pounds has inspired a great many letters from readers telling me how they have personally overcome the hurdle of weight control.

Some of these "helpful hints" may be all too familiar to you, but just on the strength that you may find one new idea, an idea that will seem "tailor-made" for you, I am printing some of the highlights from these happily streamlined readers' pens.

In almost every instance, you will notice, success was achieved by cutting down on calories, yet each one accomplished this in his own way.

"We began using a slightly smaller dinner plate and allowed ourselves only one helping. We realized we had been eating two dinners, not one. We continued eating the same food, but lost weight."

"I decided to stop and think before I ate anything fattening. If I didn't really want it, I certainly turned it down. Even if I did want it, just thinking about it was often enough to make me forego it."

"I stopped bringing high calorie foods into the house. When my overweight husband or teenage daughter opened the refrigerator door or pantry shelf they found more fruits, fewer rich cookies and other sweets, not nuts or peanut butter, but thin pretzel sticks instead."

"My husband and I love to eat... everything. We finally agreed to eat everything we wanted on weekends, and to diet very strictly all week. We've really kept our weight down beautifully."

"I figured out that just by eliminating cream from my coffee, after totaling the calories, I would lose 11 lbs. a year. If other readers would give up one fattening thing that they eat often or regularly, they will be surprised how much weight they can drop easily."

"We are four adults in the family. We were all overweight.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — There will be 5.4 million students going to colleges and universities in the United States this fall and about that many American parents wondering how they'll ever meet all the costs.

Millions more already are facing up to the same problem. In the years ahead their high school years. And college costs seem to grow even faster than children do.

The solution? Savings, loans, scholarships, or maybe junior helping out by getting a part-time job?

The nation will be spending $39 billion this year for educating 54 million persons, from kindergarten through graduate schools, the U.S. Office of Education estimates. The college population has more than doubled in the last 10 years with degrees becoming ever more of a factor in landing top jobs.

Some parents start saving for the college years even before the child enters elementary school. This is one incentive for buying U.S. savings bonds, or for regularly putting away money in banks — something like a Christmas Club, only for many years instead of one. Some parents take second, or moonlighting, jobs to raise the needed money.

There are insurance plans now tailored to the future needs of the growing number of college-bound youngsters and the rising cost of higher education.

Other parents dream of junior's winning a scholarship. There are many types of these. Putting his children through college would cost the parent even more than it does today, if the schools weren't aided by endowment drives. Colleges also ease their rising costs by contributions from corporations, foundations, alumni, individuals, and from taxpayers through the grants from government agencies. The federal government is now enlarging an aid plan that may help.

Sometimes the student himself gets a loan to help finance his journey through college. One plan is the National Defense Student Loan Program which has grown from $13.5 million in loans in 1955 to $145 million today. The individual colleges put up 10 per cent of the loan and handle the applications. The interest and principal payments start after the student gets his degree and may cover 10 years.

More than 800 schools and colleges are now members of the Tuition Plan, Inc., started in 1938. Member colleges offer the plan to parents as an optional payment method. The Tuition Plan pays education fees as they fall due and collects from the parents on a monthly basis.

Of course, junior may do what his father may have done before him — get a job to help out. But students increasingly complain that courses are getting harder and more technical and taking more time and energy every year. The is one reason the pay-as-you-go or the learn-now-pay-later plans are playing a bigger role in the rush for higher education — and better jobs.

Average Car's Life: 10 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Republicans get together, they don't look it. Their policy coordinating committee, meeting here this week on how to win next year, seemed a little uncoordinated.

They'll have their hands full in 1966. At stake in the elections are 15 of the 17 GOP governorships, only 20 of the 33 held by Democrats.

In Congress 14 of the 32 Republican Senate seats are up but only 19 of the 68 Democratic seats. In the House all 435 seats are at stake. There the Republicans now number only 141.

Some of the things Republicans have said and done this year give an insight into their state of mind and the state of the party:

Jan. 22 — Hoping he could smooth things, Republicans made Ray C. Bliss of Ohio their national committee chairman to succeed Dean Burch, Barry Goldwater's man in 1964. Burch was pushed out.

March 28 — "The Republican party is in bad shape," said Leonard Hall, a former GOP chairman.

June 9 — Bliss predicted a 10 per cent boost in the party's strength in the next two years "if we stay united and do the job."

June 14 — A GOP House leader, Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, said his group might end support for President Johnson's Viet Nam policy. But the Republican Senate leader, Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, said his group would "uphold the hands of the President."

June 18 — Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, the House Republicans' No. 1 man, said victory was in the air for the GOP, adding: "We're moving forward rapidly."

June 18 — Bliss, complaining splinter groups drain off funds, said Goldwater's new-born conservative Free Society Association will hamper the quest for party unity and money. Goldwater denied it's a splinter group.

June 19 — Ford, who smelled victory the day before, said he believed the two-party system was in jeopardy from Johnson's use of power.

June 23 — Bliss fired his friend and aide, William Cody Kelly, after the GOP finance director, Frank J. Kovac, accused Kelly of rifling his desk and reading his correspondence. Kovac was one of the last of Goldwater's allies left in the high command.

Kelly told the National Committee he broke into the desk because he suspected Kovac of spying for Goldwater and that working at GOP headquarters was more dangerous than fighting a war.

June 23 — The recently formed American Conservative Union proclaimed itself a "think tank" to increase Republican seats in the House. Its leadership denied it was a splinter group.

June 23 — Bliss, sounding less optimistic than on June 9, said the National Committee was "not cocky" about the party's chances next year.

July 23 — Denison Kitchell, president of Goldwater's Free Society Association, hit at two Republican governors, George Romney of Michigan and New York's Nelson A. Rockefeller. He said their party efforts "have never gone much beyond service to their own ambitions."

Aug. 19 — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said it was "all rot" that there was any rift between him and Johnson on the U.S. military commitment in Viet Nam.

Aug. 24 — House Republicans issued a "white paper" critical of Johnson's handling of the Vietnamese war. Senate Republicans didn't join them.

Aug. 30 — Goldwater said his FSA will help the party. Romney and former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York said such an organization tends to weaken the party.

There was irritation over Goldwater's previous charge that the 17 Republican governors are promoting a splinter group by opening a campaign headquarters in Washington.

And Bliss, who took a dim view of splinter groups, said he is fed up with controversy over them, will work with any that help elect Republicans.

Sketch of a Dynamo

LBJ Is Proving To Be One-Man Government

EDITOR'S NOTE — at times President Johnson's large frame seems to fill all of Washington. And in a sense, this is very nearly true. Here's the first of four articles that present a lively closeup of the President's ways, public and private.

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson probably would flare up at the idea that his is a one-man administration. Yet perhaps as much as any man who has occupied the White House, he is the government. It is Johnson who has the power. And it is Johnson who ultimately decides on all the major and many minor moves on the chessboard of domestic affairs and foreign policy.

Whatever he is, Johnson has come up with an amazing mass of legislation to build what he calls the Great Society. He says his one overriding goal is lasting peace.

How does he operate? This is a man who puts in many a 16-hour day practicing persuasion and what he might call enlightenment. He bounces from one chore to another in seemingly tireless fashion. It helps, though, to do it in shifts — there's a midafternoon nap.

He consults. He seeks consensus. He requests and receives advice. He schedules conference after conference — with members of Congress, governors, mayors, leaders in all sorts of fields — civil rights, education, business, labor, the professions.

As for those tales about his arm twirling, he dismisses them as fantasy. But he does some effective wheeling and dealing, preferably in face-to-face chats or on the telephone.

The President can be a delightful host too. He is a frequent one. Never before have so many people seen so much of the White House so often — even to the presidential bedroom. There are big parties and little ones, outside and inside, and on boat rides down the Potomac.

And if Johnson bestows favors, maybe he can ask favors. If he receives one, he never fails to follow up with a word of appreciation. "That," says a member of Congress, "I like."

Yet this President at other times can be domineering and unforgiving; and he can resort to language blistering enough and profane and earthy enough to make an artillery sergeant shudder.

A staff he drives with an iron hand gets the brunt of the Johnson anger at times and yet gives him unwavering loyalty.

Reports got around that the President once gave former press secretary George E. Reedy a verbal awchding, then gave him a station wagon for Christmas. Johnson is supposed to have explained:

"You never want to give a man a present when he's up — you want to do it when he's down."

The President not only has power over his staff. He has power, period. It is a power backed by guile, skill, downright ability, and a know-how and experience in Congress and government unmatched by any person who rose to the presidency.

The power is based in part on the dimensions of Johnson's 1964 political triumph.

No Democrat since Franklin D. Roosevelt ran ahead of his party in a presidential race, as Johnson did last year. The victory was accompanied by solid Democratic majorities in Senate and House, and gratitude to Johnson for helping make things so.

U.S. Midland Has Its Own Special Lingo

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Residents of Terre Haute have learned they speak "Midland," mixed with "Southern" and "Northern."

The first detailed study ever made of the speech in a single Indiana community has been completed by Marvin D. Carmmony, assistant professor of English at Indiana State University.

Terre Haute was founded in 1816, the same year Indiana entered the Union, and early emigrants came up the Wabash River and west on the National Road. A strong early influence of New England Yankees gradually was submerged.

Carmmony gives these examples of Terre Haute usages, with first choices in other areas:

Hay loft—Southern. Northern usage usually is hay mow.

Quarter till eight—Midland. Northern usage generally is quarter of eight, Southern quarter to eight.

Bucket—Midland. Yankees usage is pail.

Wishbones—Northern. Midland — Southern is pulleybones. Coal oil—Midland. Northern and Southern, kerosene.

Skillet—Midland. Northern is frying pan.

Pancakes—Midland. Usual Northern form is hotcakes.

Squirrel Prefers Boys to Woods

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — Skippy is a red squirrel who seems to like boys and campus life better than the woods.

Skippy has managed to get herself adopted by a dozen boys of Mason Cottage who are students at Starr Commonwealth, a school for boys with emotional and behavior problems.

Although Skippy is taken to the woods to play, she always returns to feast on peanuts, cookies and corn bread. She lives in a screened-in porch off the cottage's living room.

"Either she thinks she's a boy or that we're squirrels," one student said.

McKinley Memorial Visited By Many People Each Year

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of summer tours featuring state memorials maintained by the Ohio Historical Society prepared for readers of The Herald by the Columbus Auto Club.

The William McKinley Memorial at Canton, honoring the memory of the nation's twenty-fifth president, is visited by more than 150,000 people annually.

Although McKinley was born in Niles, his professional and political career started in Canton. The memorial to the martyred president was dedicated there in 1907.

The structure is 97 feet high and 75 feet in diameter at the base. It is one of three state monuments maintained by the Ohio Historical Society in the area recommended for the AAA tour.

At Carrollton, east of Canton, is a memorial to Ohio's "Fighting McCooks." This historic house was the home of Major Daniel McCook, who with his nine sons and five sons of his brother, Dr. John McCook, won fame by their participation in the armed services prior to and during the Civil War.

From Daniel's family came three major generals, two brigadier generals, one colonel and two majors. John's family contributed one major general, one brigadier general and three lieutenants.

Daniel and three of his sons lost their lives. The father's fatal wounds were suffered in the battle of Buffington Island, with Morgan's Raiders.

The home is now a museum with period furniture and memorabilia of the family and of the Civil War.

A third memorial in the area is Fort Laurens, a short distance southwest of Canton. This is the site of the only American Revolution fort in Ohio.

As time permits, Canton offers other attractions in addition to the McKinley Monument. A five-mile park system passing near the memorial also includes Garden Center, 40-acre arboretum and athletic stadium. Within City Park is Mother Goose Land, with a display of fairytale characters.

The Columbus Auto Club suggests this routing to the tour area: US 23 to Jct. I-270; I-270 to Jct. I-71; I-71 through Columbus to Jct. US 250 (Ashland Interchange); US 250 to Jct. US 30; and US 30 to Canton.

Name of Beatty To Keep Active

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The name of Beatty will continue to thrill fans of the circus world who creep to the edge of their seats when a human enters a cage full of wild animals. A step-daughter of the late Clyde Beatty, the famed wild animal trainer who died of cancer July 19 after 40 years in the business, plans to expand her animal act with the hope of eventually putting on a show similar to her father's.

"The name of Beatty is synonymous with the best in wild cat trainers," said Harriet Beatty Say in an interview. "I hope to follow in his footsteps and keep that name alive."

6,500 New Teachers Said Needed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio should hire approximately 6,500 new teachers every year to meet enrollment needs for the next six years, the state superintendent of public instruction said Monday.

Supt. E. E. Holt announced an expected public school enrollment of 2,270,108 this fall, almost 40,000 more than last year.

Classroom teachers total 86,438, a three per cent increase over last year. The total professional staff, teachers, administrators, superintendents and executive heads, numbers 94,916.

As of July 1, there were 742 school districts in the state. The enrollment breakdown is: kindergarten, 162,320; grade one through 12, 1,472,634; grades nine through 12, 598,654. About 36,500 pupils are in special education.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Republicans get together, they don't look it. Their policy coordinating committee, meeting here this week on how to win next year, seemed a little uncoordinated.

They'll have their hands full in 1966. At stake in the elections are 15 of the 17 GOP governorships, only 20 of the 33 held by Democrats.

In Congress 14 of the 32 Republican Senate seats are up but only 19 of the 68 Democratic seats. In the House all 435 seats are at stake. There the Republicans now number only 141.

Some of the things Republicans have said and done this year give an insight into their state of mind and the state of the party:

Jan. 22 — Hoping he could smooth things, Republicans made Ray C. Bliss of Ohio their national committee chairman to succeed Dean Burch, Barry Goldwater's man in 1964. Burch was pushed out.

servative Free Society Association will hamper the quest for party unity and money. Goldwater denied it's a splinter group.

June 23 — Bliss fired his friend and aide, William Cody Kelly, after the GOP finance director, Frank J. Kovac, accused Kelly of rifling his desk and reading his correspondence. Kovac was one of the last of Goldwater's allies left in the high command.

Kelly told the National Committee he broke into the desk because he suspected Kovac of spying for Goldwater and that working at GOP headquarters was more dangerous than fighting a war.

July 28 — Denison Kitchell, president of Goldwater's Free Society Association, hit at two Republican governors, George Romney of Michigan and New York's Nelson A. Rockefeller. He said their party efforts "have never gone much beyond service to their own ambitions."

Aug. 19 — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said it was "all rot" that there was any rift between him and Johnson on the U.S. military commitment in Viet Nam.

Aug. 24 — House Republicans issued a "white paper" critical of Johnson's handling of the Vietnamese war. Senate Republicans didn't join them.

Aug. 30 — Goldwater said his FSA will help the party. Romney and former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York said such an organization tends to weaken the party.

There was irritation over Goldwater's previous charge that the 17 Republican governors are promoting a splinter group by opening a campaign headquarters in Washington.

And Bliss, who took a dim view of splinter groups, said he is fed up with controversy over them, will work with any that help elect Republicans.

6,500 New Teachers Said Needed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio should hire approximately 6,500 new teachers every year to meet enrollment needs for the next six years, the state superintendent of public instruction said Monday.

Supt. E. E. Holt announced an expected public school enrollment of 2,270,108 this fall, almost 40,000 more than last year.

Classroom teachers total 86,438, a three per cent increase over last year. The total professional staff, teachers, administrators, superintendents and executive heads, numbers 94,916.

As of July 1, there were 742 school districts in the state.

The enrollment breakdown is: kindergarten, 162,320; grade one through 12, 1,472,634; grades nine through 12, 598,654. About 36,500 pupils are in special education.

New Stamp Honors Discovery of Florida

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP) — A five-cent postage stamp commemorating the 400th anniversary of Florida's discovery has been issued. The stamp features a Spanish explorer in flowing cape holding a sword aloft. The stamp is red, yellow and black in color.

LBJ Is Proving To Be One-Man Government

EDITOR'S NOTE — at times President Johnson's large frame seems to fill all of Washington. And in a sense, this is very nearly true. Here's the first of four articles that present a lively closeup of the President's ways, public and private.

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson probably would flare up at the idea that his is a one-man administration. Yet perhaps as much as any man who has occupied the White House, he is the government. It is Johnson who has the power. And it is Johnson who ultimately decides on all the major and many minor moves on the chessboard of domestic affairs and foreign policy.

Whatever he is, Johnson has come up with an amazing mass of legislation to build what he calls the Great Society. He says his one overriding goal is lasting peace.

How does he operate? This is a man who puts in many a 16-hour day practicing persuasion and what he might call enlightenment. He bounces from one chore to another in seemingly tireless fashion. It helps, though, to do it in shifts — there's a midafternoon nap.

He consults. He seeks consensus. He requests and receives advice. He schedules conference after conference — with members of Congress, governors, mayors, leaders in all sorts of fields — civil rights, education, business, labor, the professions.

As for those tales about his arm twirling, he dismisses them as fantasy. But he does some effective wheeling and dealing, preferably in face-to-face chats or on the telephone.

The first detailed study ever made of the speech in a single Indiana community has been completed by Marvin D. Carmony, assistant professor of English at Indiana State University.

Terre Haute was founded in 1816, the same year Indiana entered the Union, and early emigrants came up the Wabash River and west on the National Road. A strong early influence of New England Yankees gradually was submerged.

Carmony gives these examples of Terre Haute usages, with first choices in other areas: Hay loft—Southern. Northern usage usually is hay mow.

Quarter till eight—Midland. Northern usage generally is quarter of eight, Southern quarter to eight.

Bucket—Midland. Yankees use pail. Wishbones—Northern. Midland — Southern is pulleybones. Coal oil—Midland. Northern and Southern, kerosene.

Skillet—Midland. Northern is frying pan. Pancakes—Midland. Usual Northern form is hotcakes.

U.S. Midland Has Its Own Special Lingo

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)— Residents of Terre Haute have learned they speak "Midland," mixed with "Southern" and "Northern."

Squirrel Prefers Boys to Woods

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — Skippy is a red squirrel who seems to like boys and campus life better than the woods.

Skippy has managed to get herself adopted by a dozen boys of Mason Cottage who are students at Starr Commonwealth, a school for boys with emotional and behavior problems.

Although Skippy is taken to the woods to play, she always returns to feast on peanuts, cookies and corn bread. She lives in a screened-in porch off the cottage's living room.

"Either she thinks she's a boy or that we're squirrels," one student said.

McKinley Memorial Visited By Many People Each Year

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of summer tours featuring state memorials maintained by the Ohio Historical Society prepared for readers of The Herald by the Columbus Auto Club.

The William McKinley Memorial at Canton, honoring the memory of the nation's twenty-fifth president, is visited by more than 150,000 people annually.

Although McKinley was born in Niles, his professional and political career started in Canton. The memorial to the martyred president was dedicated there in 1907.

The structure is 97 feet high and 75 feet in diameter at the base. It is one of three state monuments maintained by the Ohio Historical Society in the area recommended for the AAA tour.

At Carrollton, east of Canton, is a memorial to Ohio's "Fighting McCooks." This historic house was the home of Major Daniel McCook, who with his nine sons and five sons of his brother, Dr. John McCook, won fame by their participation in the army services prior to and during the Civil War.

From Daniel's family came three major generals, two brigadier generals, one colonel and two majors. John's family contributed one major general, one brigadier general and three lieutenants.

Daniel and three of his sons lost their lives. The father's fatal wounds were suffered in the battle of Buffington Island, with Morgan's Raiders. The home is now a museum with period furniture and memorabilia of the family and of the Civil War.

A third memorial in the area is Fort Laurens, a short distance southwest of Canton. This is the site of the only American Revolution fort in Ohio.

As time permits, Canton offers other attractions in addition to the McKinley Monument. A five-mile park system passing near the memorial also includes Garden Center, 40-acre arboretum and athletic stadium. Within City Park is Mother Goose Land, with a display of fairytale characters.

The Columbus Auto Club suggests this routing to the tour area: US 23 to Jct. I-270; I-270 to Jct. I-71; I-71 through Columbus to Jct. US 250 (Ashland Interchange); US 250 to Jct. US 30; and US 30 to Canton.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren
Understandable Goof!

DEAR ABBY: We met a nice-looking gentleman at a party recently and our host introduced him as "Mister Blank." The man became indignant and said, "DOCTOR Blank, please!" Our embarrassed host then corrected himself, half-apologetically, and left us with this "Doctor Blank."

Assuming he was an M.D., I asked, "Do you specialize, Doctor?" He replied, "I am NOT a medical doctor. I am in the hardware business." He explained that he had EARNED (and he emphasized the word) a Ph.D. in Philosophy, which made him a doctor of philosophy and therefore he had as much right to the title of "doctor" as a physician. Is this true?

UNAWARE
DEAR UNAWARE: Very few Ph.D.'s who are not in education use their "doctor" titles, although they may if they wish. Your friend may require the services of a D.D.S. to help him get his foot out of his mouth.

DEAR ABBY: Something bothers me. I am a working widow soon to retire. I support my mother, which I consider a privilege because she is a wonderful person. My children are married. Because I have been a good manager and have watched my pennies, I have been able to help my married children out with loans from time to time. One of my sons borrowed a sizable amount of money from me four years ago and not once has he mentioned this debt. If he would only say, "Mom, I haven't forgotten you." Or, "I'm saving to pay you off one of these days," just to let me know that he is aware of this debt. He and his wife are buying a lovely home and they have much nicer furniture than I have. They have also just bought a new car. I am not hard up for money, Abby, but I would feel much better toward this son if he would acknowledge his debt. I would also feel like doing much more for his children than I have of late. Should I mention it?

FORGOTTEN MOM
DEAR MOM: Yes!

DEAR ABBY: I think it's very nice to be a devoted mother and grandmother, but please say a word about a place for everything in this regard.

A woman in our office bores everybody to death with talk and snapshots of her children and grandchildren. When she sends a card for any occasion, she puts not only HER name on the card, but also her husband's children's and grandchildren's. Now that's pretty nauseating. When her 17-year-old daughter picks her up at work, the girl will come sometimes two hours early and get in everybody's way walking around, giggling and asking questions. Don't tell me to tell the office manager. I AM the office manager. But this woman has been here many more years than I, and I hesitate to fire her even though I have repeatedly warned her about this. Now what?

OFFICE MANAGER
DEAR MANAGER: To whom are you responsible for the efficiency of the office personnel? Take it up with your superior. Time wasted is money squandered in any organization. Seniority or no, the boss will be on your side.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WALTER: Take a little more time. Those who never have the time to do a job properly the first time always seem to find the time to do it over.

Davis-Lutz
Reunion Held
At Tar Hollow

The first Davis-Lutz reunion was held Sunday at Tar Hollow State Park.

Attending were Mrs. Laura Davis and Lenora Faith, Keith, Paul, Alonzo Davis and Arla Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Davis and son Tony, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip and son, Rocky, Mrs. Betty Davis and Tommy, Tara, Tammy, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Davis and Stephanie, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Smith and grandson, Ernie Brown, all of Circleville;

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Faulkner, Miss Diana Faulkner, Mrs. Pamela Music and son Scott, and Mabel Lutz, all of Chillicothe; Mrs. Ted Davis and Toni and Toby Davis, Amanda; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Davis and Rhonda, Ronnie, Robert Davis, Tarlton.

The next reunion will be held Aug. 28, 1966, at the Du Pont Club House, Circleville.

BPW Club
Holds Meet

Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, 347 Meadow Lane, entertained members of the Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club. Assisting hostesses were Clarissa Talbut and Mrs. Lucille Bostwick.

A picnic was held preceding the short business session. Plans were made to cooperate in the District Meeting Sept. 26 at Grandview Inn, Columbus.

Mrs. Roliff Wolford, president, announced the division of club membership into the several official club responsibility areas.

The survey committee reported that plans have been made to hold all meetings for the year at The Mecca Restaurant, W. Main St.

The world affairs committee will be in charge of the Sept. 23 session.

Thursday Meeting
Scheduled by Club

Mrs. Mary Ann LaBounty, 128 E. Mill St., will entertain members of the Circleville Junior Women's Club 8 p. m. Thursday.

Betty Newton of the Gas Company will present the theme, "Fabulous Finishes."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Understandable Goof!

DEAR ABBY: We met a nice-looking gentleman at a party recently and our host introduced him as "Mister Blank." The man became indignant and said, "DOCTOR Blank, please!" Our embarrassed host then corrected himself, half-apologetically, and left us with this "Doctor Blank."

Assuming he was an M.D., I asked, "Do you specialize, Doctor?" He replied, "I am NOT a medical doctor. I am in the hardware business." He explained that he had EARNED (and he emphasized the word) a Ph.D. in Philosophy, which made him a doctor of philosophy and therefore he had as much right to the title of "doctor" as a physician. Is this true?

UNAWARE
DEAR UNAWARE: Very few Ph.D.'s who are not in education use their "doctor" titles, although they may if they wish. Your friend may require the services of a D.D.S. to help him get his foot out of his mouth.

DEAR ABBY: Something bothers me. I am a working widow soon to retire. I support my mother, which I consider a privilege because she is a wonderful person. My children are married. Because I have been a good manager and have watched my pennies, I have been able to help my married children out with loans from time to time.

One of my sons borrowed a sizable amount of money from me four years ago and not once has he mentioned this debt. If he would only say, "Mom, I haven't forgotten you." Or, "I'm saving to pay you off one of these days," just to let me know that he is aware of this debt. He and his wife are buying a lovely home and they have much nicer furniture than I have. They have also just bought a new car. I am not hard up for money, Abby, but I would feel much better toward this son if he would acknowledge his debt. I would also feel like doing much more for his children than I have of late. Should I mention it?

FORGOTTEN MOM
DEAR MOM: Yes!

DEAR ABBY: I think it's very nice to be a devoted mother and grandmother, but please say a word about a place for everything in this regard.

A woman in our office bores everybody to death with talk and snapshots of her children and grandchildren. When she sends a card for any occasion, she puts not only HER name on the card, but also her husband's children's and grandchildren's. Now that's pretty nauseating.

When her 17-year-old daughter picks her up at work, the girl will come sometimes two hours early and get in everybody's way walking around, giggling and asking questions. Don't tell me to tell the office manager. I AM the office manager. But this woman has been here many more years than I, and I hesitate to fire her even though I have repeatedly warned her about this. Now what?

OFFICE MANAGER
DEAR MANAGER: To whom are you responsible for the efficiency of the office personnel? Take it up with your superior. Time wasted is money squandered in any organization. Seniority or no, the boss will be on your side.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WALTER: Take a little more time. Those who never have the time to do a job properly the first time always seem to find the time to do it over.

Because kids' feet come in 168 sizes.

Parents like the fact that we carry enough sizes to fit every youngster's foot precisely. The youngsters themselves like the fact that we have Jumping Jacks in just about every style they can imagine. With a size range that pleases parents, and with the styles that please the kids, it's no wonder that when people think of children's shoes, people think of us. Come see our Jumping Jacks soon.

Busy Week Slated for CHS Team

The current week, the last week of practice before school opens, promises to be a busy one for the Circleville High School football team.

Tomorrow the Tigers travel to Gahanna for a scrimmage. Friday is picture day for the team.

On Saturday morning, Logan, defending football kings of the Southeastern Ohio League, will be here for a scrimmage.

Saturday afternoon the entire team will be hosted at a picnic which will be held at Joe Adkins' cabin in Hocking County.

THESE activities have been scheduled in addition to regular practice sessions.

The Friday picture taking date is open to the public. CHS Coach Paul Starr urged parents and other grid fans to bring their cameras.

The team is to be dressed at 1 p. m. in game uniforms. Photos for the programs and annual will be taken at 1:30.

Trot Mark Possible in Hambletonian

DU QUOIN, Ill. (AP) — Talk of a record mile heat in Wednesday's $122,245 Hambletonian is being avoided but must be considered a possibility.

A field of 11 will line up for the premier harness racing stake for 3-year-old trotters with Noble Victory, driven by veteran Stanley Dancer, seeking his first triumph in the event after five misses, an unofficial 1-2 favorite.

Armro Flight, a big, black filly piloted by Joe O'Brien, twice a Hambletonian winner, is second choice in the betless race at 3-1.

Neither horse has been fully extended in compelling sensational streaks. Noble Victory has a string of 20 victories and owns the best time in the division this year, at 1:59 3-5 at Springfield, Ill., two weeks ago.

Armro Flight, whose last defeat was to Noble Victory last fall, has not raced against colts since then in winning 22 straight. The filly's best clocking of the season is 2:00 3-5. This time, second only to Noble Victory's, was matched by Marango Hanover driven by John Simpson.

Marango Hanover, the only horse to finish ahead of Noble Victory in two years, is a 10-1 choice.

Redlegs Recall Pair of Players

CINCINNATI (AP) — Southpaw pitcher Gerry Arrigo and Lee May, a slugging first baseman, have been recalled by the Cincinnati Reds to strengthen the club during the National League pennant drive.

The two were brought up from the Reds' San Diego farm club and are to report Wednesday.

Arrigo has won four and lost season until July 22, when they sent him to San Diego. Since he joined the West Coast club, Arrigo has won four and lost two in nine starts with an earned run average of 2.13.

May, 22, batted .318 in 141 games for San Diego. He had 30 doubles, six triples, 34 homers and 102 runs batted in.

Yogi Berra May Succeed Old Casey as Mets Pilot

NEW YORK (AP) — Yogi Berra, fired as manager by the New York Yankees last year, may become the manager of the New York Mets next year.

The dramatic but hardly unexpected resignation of Casey Stengel Monday, effective at the end of the season, left the door open for Berra to step in and take charge of the National League cellar dwellers in 1966.

There is always the possibility that the job will be given to Wes Westrum, who has served ably as interim manager of the Mets during Stengel's month-long absence.

Most observers believe, however, that Westrum, short of pulling a miracle — like bringing the Mets home in ninth place — will be returned to his bullpen duties next year with Yogi elevated from his present job as first base coach.

Stengel has not managed the Mets since July 24, when he fell and fractured his left hip. Although an operation was successful, Casey has been confined to a wheelchair, occasionally allowed to walk with the use of a cane, as he did at Tuesday's press conference.

His decision to quit came on the advice of Dr. Peter LaMotte, the club physician who performed the successful operation.

"Casey," Dr. LaMotte said, "it's a miracle that you can walk today. It was most serious operation. I cannot take the responsibility if you insist on returning as manager."

"The traveling the job entails, even the act of going out to the mound to take out a pitcher,

Bowling Green Colt Wins Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Frosty Tip, 2-year-old bay trotter owned, trained and driven by Bert Amos Sr. of Bowling Green, came up with his two best times ever to win the $25,800 Ohio State Trot at the Ohio State Fair Monday.

Frosty Tip led from the start in the race-off heat and withstood a closing charge by Gay Sam to win by a head in 2:09. The homebred son of Val Frost had taken the second heat of the feature, beating Egyptian Song, owned by George E. Connor, Columbus, in 2:10 2-5. His best previous time was 2:11 3-5.

Gay Sam, owned by Sam Coil of Washington Court House, had taken the first heat in 2:19.

Tribe Books Pair At Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Cleveland Indians will play a two-night doubleheader tonight against a Kansas City Athletics team that has come on strong since the All-Star Game. Monday night's single game was postponed on account of rain and wet grounds.

It doesn't make them pennant contenders but is a considerable improvement over the 23-54 mark they had before then.

Sonny Siebert and Sam McDowell will hurl for the Indians, with Jim Hunter and Fred Talbot going for the Athletics. It will be Siebert's first start since Aug. 13.

Twins Romp Even Without Super Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Remember Harmon Killebrew?

He used to be the Minnesota Twins' leading slugger. But that was before he dislocated his left elbow. Now he can almost straighten his arm.

The Twins thought they would miss Killebrew, also a versatile infielder, in their battle for the American League pennant. If they have, though, it's not discernible. At least not in the standings.

When Killebrew was forced out of the line-up Aug. 2, Minnesota had a six-game lead. Now, nearly one month later, the Twins hold a seven-game margin following their 11-inning, 3-2 triumph over Detroit Monday night.

Earlier on the day of Killebrew's baseline accident, ace pitcher Camilo Pascual underwent surgery on his pitching arm for torn muscles.

The Twins were in trouble. Or so they thought. The other alleged contenders should be in such trouble.

Of 29 games since then, Minnesota has won 18 for a .621 percentage. That's slightly less than its over-all mark of .632.

Two major reasons why the Twins have maintained their comfortable margin are Al Worthington and John Klippstein, a pair of elderly relief pitchers.

They both pitched Monday night, shutting out the Tigers on three hits in the final five innings. They didn't walk anyone and struck out seven.

The Twins won in the 11th when Don Mincher singled, was sacrificed to second and raced home as Sandy Valdespino line a two-out single off Larry Sherry.

In the only other game played New York defeated the Los Angeles Angels 4-2. Rain washed out Cleveland at Kansas City, and there were no games scheduled in the National League.

Jack Cullen, now 3-2, scattered eight hits and singled in a run for the Yankees. Elston Howard socked a home run in the third inning, and Tony Kubek drove in a run in the fifth with a single, his first hit in 30 at-bats. Jim Fregosi singled across both Los Angeles runs.

Local Bowling Team Ranked in Classic Tourney

The Prairie Lanes bowling team ranked 23rd in the Hoinke Classic bowling tournament at Cincinnati.

The local team, composed of George Ebbrecht, Bill Hammond, Dave Blue, Mike Brown and Dave Olney had a high single game of 1,119.

There were 621 teams participating. Out of 8,627 individuals participating in the singles events, Dave Olney finished 529th with a series score of 1,046 for five games.

Alabama has replaced Tennessee atop the all-time Southeastern Conference football standings. In 31 years of play in the SEC, Alabama has won 134 games, lost 64 and tied 18.

Sisler Pleads: Don't Boo Robby

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frank Robinson is presently the target of some lusty booing by hometown fans — probably the worst he has heard in his 10 years with the Cincinnati Reds.

In fact, Manager Dick Sisler is pleading with the fans to "lay off" Robinson, lest it hurts the club's National League pennant chances.

"Ask them to please lay off Robby," said Sisler. "Tell them if they want to boo someone, then boo me."

"I know it's human nature to boo the star, but this is no time of year for that sort of thing," Sisler added.

Robinson, who is 30 years old today, has always been booed at Crosley Field. But nothing like this season. Although he's batting .286, he's been hitting in streaks and is presently in a slump.

The fans jeer mostly when he fails to hit with men on base. They roared loud disapprovals when he went hitless in four times Sunday against St. Louis.

Robinson says the booing bothers him in that he tries "a little bit too hard. A fellow can try too hard, you know."

It doesn't matter to them how the game is going. We could be 10 runs ahead, but if I fail to hit, some of them boo.

"Then the same fans will come through with cheers later in the same game when I come through."

"I know fans are fans," Sisler added. "If they want to boo Robby, there's no way I can stop them. But I sure wish they'd give him encouragement instead of the treatment he has been getting."

Robinson's 1965 effort is nothing to blush about. He has 24 doubles, five triples, 23 homers and 80 runs batted in. But the fans no doubt are thinking back of 1961 and 1962. In 1961 Robinson batted .323 and slugged .37 homers. He topped that in '62 with a .342 average and 39 roundtrippers.

Other Reds feel Robinson is the team leader.

"He helps everybody on the club," said Vada Pinson. "Tommy Harper, Johnny Edwards, Deron Johnson and others have asked Robby for advice. He is entirely unselfish."

Columbus Wins IL Pennant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Columbus won the International League pennant the easy way Monday night — by losing to Atlanta, 7-2.

The Jets officially clinched the pennant when Syracuse clipped second-place Toronto 3-2, mathematically eliminating the Maple Leafs.

In other games, Rochester stopped Buffalo 4-1, and Toledo won the first game of a scheduled doubleheader over Jacksonville 4-3. Rain forced postponement of the second game.

Jack Curtis of Toledo was tagged for 11 hits but left nine Jacksonville baserunners stranded in gaining his 10th victory.

Don Fullmer Named As Fighter of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, has been named fighter of the month by Ring magazine.

Fullmer, whose brother Gene was the former middleweight champion, gained the honor for his 10-round decision over welterweight king Emile Griffith. The victory gave Fullmer the World Boxing Association's American middleweight crown and ninth place in Ring's world middleweight rankings.

MUSCLEMAN MATHEWS—Leading the Milwaukee (and Atlanta) Braves on what could be a pennant binge is Eddie Mathews, the slugging third sacker, who has been hitting over .500 in the last two weeks and twice knocked in six runs in games in that span.

The Reds, idle Monday, clash tonight in a two-night doubleheader with the slumping Milwaukee Braves.

Sisler intends to pitch Joey Jay and Jim O'Toole against the Braves' Ken Johnson and Tony Cloninger.

Teays Valley Little League Stars Defeated

The Teays Valley Little League All-Stars met Hillsboro in the Chillicothe Tournament Aug. 26 and eked out a 1-0 victory behind the 1-hit pitching of Van Gregg, who struck out 16 and walked two.

The game was a pitcher's duel all the way with Hillsboro's Trout striking out 14 and walking 2. Pee Wee Patricio and Randy Nungester managed the only hits for Teays Valley while Gardman slapped the only hit of the game for Hillsboro — a single. Patricio scored the only run of the game on a passed ball.

On Aug. 27 the locals met Logan at Chillicothe and went down to defeat 6-0. Tucker, the Logan pitcher held Teays Valley to one hit, a scratch single by Richard Haddox. Pee Wee Patricio gave up eight hits in a losing cause. The defeat eliminated Teays Valley from the tournament.

Wilmington Pacer Cops Scioto Feature

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Golden Gait, owned by Ronald Fox of Wilmington, came from behind in the featured eighth race at Scioto Downs Monday night to win in 2:06 4-5.

Driven by Emor Bailey, the bay gelding won by a neck over Lady Mahon and paid $10.40, $4.60, 3.60.

Cassady Ties For Low Pro At PGA Event

Tom Cassady, host pro at the Pickaway Country Club for yesterday's central Ohio PGA event, tied for low pro honors with Bill Collins, Columbus Country Club assistant with 72.

But an amateur, Dick Fenstermaker of the Brookside Country Club, carded the best score of the day when he fired a 71 over the PCC layout.

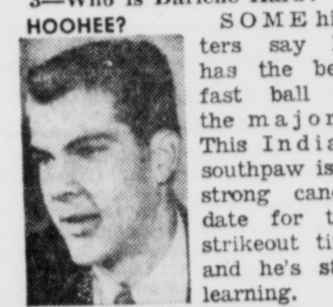

The best ball twosome was won by Vince Scartz and P. G. Marzluff of Stoney Creek with a 67. Cassady and Tom Bivens finished tied for second with a 68. The best ball foursome was won by the Stoney Creek team of Scartz, Marzluff, Ed Sneed and Gene Cardi.

It was not until last Wednesday that Casey finally made up his mind. In a meeting with George Weiss, the club president, Stengel said:

"George, I got to face it. You can't count on me for next year." Weiss, who has worked with Stengel for 17 years, including one year at Kansas City and 12 with the Yankees, accepted Casey's resignation with mixed emotions.

The next night Weiss met with the Mets' Board of Directors and recommended a job in an executive capacity for the 75-year-old baseball genius.

But an amateur, Dick Fenstermaker of the Brookside Country Club, carded the best score of the day when he fired a 71 over the PCC layout.

The best ball twosome was won by Vince Scartz and P. G. Marzluff of Stoney Creek with a 67. Cassady and Tom Bivens finished tied for second with a 68. The best ball foursome was won by the Stoney Creek team of Scartz, Marzluff, Ed Snead and Gene Card.

The only jai-alai frontons in the United States are in Florida. Six frontons drew 1.5 million fans in the 1964-65 fiscal year. Wagering amounted to $48 million.

Local Bowling Team Ranked in Classic Tourney

The Prairie Lanes bowling team ranked 23rd in the Hoinke Classic bowling tournament at Cincinnati.

The local team, composed of George Ebbrecht, Bill Hammond, Dave Blue, Mike Brown and Dave Olney had a high single game of 1,119.

There were 621 teams participating. Out of 8,627 individuals participating in the singles events, Dave Olney finished 529th with a series score of 1,046 for five games.

Alabama has replaced Tennessee atop the all-time Southeastern Conference football standings. In 31 years of play in the SEC, Alabama has won 134 games, lost 64 and tied 18.

Twins Romp Even Without Super Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Remember Harmon Killebrew?

He used to be the Minnesota Twins' leading slugger. But that was before he dislocated his left elbow. Now he can almost straighten his arm.

The Twins thought they would miss Killebrew, also a versatile infielder, in their battle for the American League pennant. If they have, though, it's not discernible. At least not in the standings.

When Killebrew was forced out of the line-up Aug. 2, Minnesota had a six-game lead. Now, nearly one month later, the Twins hold a seven-game margin following their 11-inning, 3-2 triumph over Detroit Monday night.

Earlier on the day of Killebrew's baseline accident, ace pitcher Camilo Pascual underwent surgery on his pitching arm for torn muscles.

The Twins were in trouble. Or so they thought. The other alleged contenders should be in such trouble.

Of 29 games since then, Minnesota has won 18 for a .621 percentage. That's slightly less than its over-all mark of .632.

Two major reasons why the Twins have maintained their comfortable margin are Al Worthington and John Klippstein, a pair of elderly relief pitchers.

They both pitched Monday night, shutting out the Tigers on three hits in the final five innings. They didn't walk anyone and struck out seven.

The Twins won in the 11th when Don Mincher singled, was sacrificed to second and raced home as Sandy Valdespino line a two-out single off Larry Sherry.

In the only other game played New York defeated the Los Angeles Angels 4-2. Rain washed out Cleveland at Kansas City, and there were no games scheduled in the National League.

Jack Cullen, now 3-2, scattered eight hits and singled in a run for the Yankees. Elston Howard socked a home run in the third inning, and Tony Kubek drove in a run in the fifth with a single, his first hit in 20 at-bats. Jim Fregosi singled across both Los Angeles runs.

Sisler Pleads: Don't Boo Robby

CINCINNATI (AP) — Frank Robinson is presently the target of some lusty booing by hometown fans—probably the worst he has heard in his 10 years with the Cincinnati Reds.

In fact, Manager Dick Sisler is pleading with the fans to "lay off" Robinson, lest it hurts the club's National League pennant chances.

"Ask them to please lay off Robby," said Sisler. "Tell them if they want to boo someone, then boo me."

"I know it's human nature to boo the star, but this is no time of year for that sort of thing," Sisler added.

Robinson, who is 30 years old today, has always been booed at Crosley Field. But nothing like this season. Although he's batting .286, he's been hitting in streaks and is presently in a slump.

The fans jeer mostly when he fails to hit with men on base. They roared loud disapprovals when he went hitless in four times Sunday against St. Louis.

Robinson says the booing bothers him in that he tries "a little bit too hard. A fellow can try too hard, you know."

It doesn't matter to them how the game is going. We could be 10 runs ahead, but if I fail to hit, some of them boo.

"Then the same fans will come through with cheers later in the same game when I come through."

"I know fans are fans," Sisler added. "If they want to boo Robby, there's no way I can stop them. But I sure wish they'd give him encouragement instead of the treatment he has been getting."

Robinson's 1965 effort is nothing to blush about. He has 24 doubles, five triples, 23 homers and 80 runs batted in. But the fans no doubt are thinking back to 1961 and 1962. In 1961 Robinson batted .323 and slugged .37 homers. He topped that in '62 with a .342 average and 39 roundtrippers.

Other Reds feel Robinson is the team leader.

"He helps everybody on the club," said Vada Pinson. "Tommy Harper, Johnny Edwards, Deron Johnson and others have asked Robby for advice. He is entirely unselfish."

Columbus Wins IL Pennant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Columbus won the International League pennant the easy way Monday night — by losing to Atlanta, 7-2.

The Jets officially clinched the pennant when Syracuse clipped second-place Toronto 3-2, mathematically eliminating the Maple Leafs.

In other games, Rochester stopped Buffalo 4-1, and Toledo won the first game of a scheduled doubleheader over Jacksonville 4-3. Rain forced postponement of the second game.

Jack Curtis of Toledo was tagged for 11 hits but left nine Jacksonville baserunners stranded in gaining his 10th victory.

Don Fullmer Named As Fighter of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, has been named fighter of the month by Ring magazine.

Fullmer, whose brother Gene was the former middleweight champion, gained the honor for his 10-round decision over welterweight king Emile Griffith. The victory gave Fullmer the World Boxing Association's American middleweight crown and ninth place in Ring's world middleweight rankings.

MUSCLEMAN MATHEWS—Leading the Milwaukee (and Atlanta) Braves on what could be a pennant binge is Eddie Mathews, the slugging third sacker, who has been hitting over .500 in the last two weeks and twice knocked in six runs in games in that span.

EVERYBODY'S BOATING
By Frank Kuchichuk, Central Press Writer

A BOATER with more than one fuel tank has to juggle fuel lines when disconnecting the empty tank from the motor and connecting the full one to it.

Tempo Products, of Solon, Ohio, has introduced a unique connector block which is mounted permanently in the boat with all the fuel lines attached to it. All you do is switch from one fuel tank to another. The photo illustrates how fuel lines can be attached to the "View-Flow" block from 2 or 3 fuel tanks (bottom connections) to one or two motors (end connections). And you can see the fuel flow, as the unit is transparent. It is easy to install, allows the switching of tanks in seconds, and prevents spillage.

Another advantage with this block is the easy method of using fuel from two tanks, alternately, when they are mounted on either side of the boat, keeping it in perfect balance.

Crow Can Save San Francisco

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. MARY'S Calif. (AP) — John David Crow is the hope of the San Francisco 49ers to end a two-year run in the cellar of the National Football League's Western Conference.

The former Heisman winner at Texas A.M., whose pro career has been marred by a series of injuries, was unhappy with the St. Louis Cardinals. He threatened to quit football if he was not traded, complaining the Cards had not played him enough last year. John David appears happy in his new surroundings at the camp of the 49ers.

although rookie Jim Norton of Washington, normally a defensive lineman, looked good filling in for Rock against Cleveland.

Bob St. Clair, didn't pass an early physical but will try again. Jim Wilson, the Georgia rookie who is involved in a lawsuit with the rival American Football League, is a potential regular guard. Rookie Joe Cerne of Northwestern is the back-up center.

Charlie Krueger, one of the best defensive tackles in the league, heads a front four that includes Roland Lakes at the other tackle and Dan Colchico and Clark Miller at the ends. Matt Hazeltine, Mike Dowdle and Dave Wilcox are the regular linebackers with Bill Cooper still recuperating from a knee operation. Rookies Ed Beard of Tennessee and Jack Chadpole of Stanford are good looking rookies.

Jim Johnson mans one corner of the condary and Jerry Mhertens moves up from safety to take Abe Woodson's old job. Elbert Kimbrough and Kermit Alexander are the safety men with George Donnelly, an Illinois rookie, and Wayne Swinford of Georgia as possibilities. The kicker is the veteran Tommy Davis who handles both punting and placement work.

Who was BASEBALL'S FINEST "RABBIT"?

By BOB SUDYK

WALTER (Rabbit) Maranville, Hall of Fame shortstop for 23 years, won the hearts of fans with his fine speed. The spectators would put their fingers to their ears and wiggle them and Rabbit would return it. He played with the Boston Braves 15 seasons and had a career .258 average. There were two other big league Rabbits—Harold (Rabbit) Warstler and Joe Patrick Rabbit.

18 Million U.S. Fish Are Killed by Pollution
WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Two U.S. officials say more than 18 million fish were killed by water pollution in the United States last year.

There were 485 separate episodes of fish killings by pollution in 40 of the 50 states, said the report of A. F. Bartsch and William N. Ingram of U.S. Public Health Laboratories at Corvallis, Ore., and Cincinnati, Ohio, respectively. They reported to the World Congress of Limnology, the study of lakes and streams.

TEN-YEAR TENURE — By Alan Mauer

"GIVING THEM A RUN FOR THEIR MONEY" MIGHT SEEM LIKE A GOOD CAPTION FOR THIS PICTURE, BUT ALLIE SHERMAN, NEW YORK GIANTS COACH, DIDN'T GET A HALF-MILLION, 10-YEAR CONTRACT TO RESUME HIS QUARTERBACK CAREER. NO MATTER WHAT PROBLEMS REMAIN AFTER THE POOREST SEASON (2-10-2) IN THE NEW YORKERS' HISTORY.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Football Giants In Need of QB

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP) — If Earl Morrall turns out to be another Y. A. Tittle, Coach Allie Sherman of the New York Giants may have the take-charge quarterback to make his new wing-T offense work.

Sherman cooked up this offense to suit the capabilities of his group of fine running backs like Tucker Fredrickson, Chuck Mercein, Ernie Koy, Ernie Wheelwright and Steve Thurlow.

After the first few exhibition games, he realized he needed an experienced quarterback to make it work so he made a deal Monday with Detroit for Earl Morrall, who had dropped behind Milt Plum in the Lions' order.

To get Morrall he had to give up Darrell Dess, a fine offensive guard, and Ernie Barnes, a veteran cornerback, but he insists the trade doesn't mean he has given up on such younger quarterbacks as Gary Wood and Bob Timberlake.

"Morrall will not solve all our problems, but the trade will speed up our rebuilding plans," Sherman said. "It will help us develop our young players faster."

The deal that brought Tittle, already a veteran, to the Giants from San Francisco in 1961 paid off with several winning seasons. The balding pass master finally retired after the 1964 season. So did such Giant veterans as Frank Gifford, Alex Webster, Andy Robustelli, Jack Stroud, Joe Walton and Tom Scott. Don Chandler, the kicking specialist, went to Green Bay in an earlier trade.

Sherman wants to get the Giants out of the cellar after last year's collapse and obviously a great deal of rebuilding was called for.

Gary Wood, who was being groomed for the quarterback job, never will be another Tittle. The 5-11 Cornell grad can run the ball and has the poise to direct the ball club but his passing leaves much to be desired. Sherman hopes that Wood or Bob Timberlake, a well-built 6-4, 220-pounder may develop into the player he needs. But Timberlake came up with a sore arm in the College All-Star camp and missed valuable instruction. When he did get into action, he showed little indicate that he can pass effectively in the NFL.

In the new offense, Joe Morrison is the wing back, sitting between the tackle and the end. Both ends are split with Aaron Thomas, normally the tight end, lining up about 8 to 10 yards outside the tackle.

Sherman has his backs line up in an I formation at times, shifting into the wing. Sometimes Morrison is a man in motion. At other times they remain in the tight T. In all cases, the quarterback still is up under the center.

"This is a rebuilding year," said Sherman, who can afford to rebuild a 2-10-2 club after signing a new 10-year contract as coach for a total salary of over $500,000.

Frederickson, the No. 1 draftee in the entire National Football League, has been hampered by illness and injuries but he is due to be the big man at fullback.

Wheelwright, the 1964 incumbent, still has a tendency to fumble. Thurlow has a fight on his hands from Koy, who can throw the option pass from the halfback position. Koy also punts. Mercein, the Yale boy, has impressed as a runner, receiver and place kicker. Smith Reed, a rookie from Alcorn A&M, also looks good.

Del Shofner, Tittle's favorite target, is back at split end with his ulcers under control and a few pounds to help him stand the grind. Homer Jones is behind him. Thomas plays the other end and John Adams, former Bear and Ram, backs up Morrison in the new wing back job.

Sherman picked up two guards, Pete Case from Philadelphia and Dave O'Brien from the Vikings to go with Bookie Bolin on defense. They made it possible to dispense with Dess, who Sherman called one of the finest guards in the league.

O'Brien also can play tackle if needed behind Frank Lasky on the right side. Rosey Brown, the offensive captain, is back for his 13th year as an all-league left tackle. Center is a problem because Greg Larson's knee, operated upon during the winter, has not come around. Mickey Walker has the job at present.

Eddie Arcaro won the Jockey Club Gold Cup race 10 times.

WHO WAS BASEBALL'S FINEST "RABBIT"?

By BOB SUDYK

WALTER (Rabbit) Maranville, Hall of Fame shortstop for 23 years, won the hearts of fans with his fine speed. The spectators would put their fingers to their ears and wiggle them and Rabbit would return it. He played with the Boston Braves 15 seasons and had a career .288 average. There were two other big league Rabbits—Harold (Rabbit) Warster and Joe Patrick Rabbit.

18 Million U.S. Fish Are Killed by Pollution
 WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Two U.S. officials say more than 18 million fish were killed by water pollution in the United States last year.

There were 485 separate episodes of fish killings by pollution in 40 of the 50 states, said the report of A. F. Bartsch and William N. Ingram of U.S. Public Health Laboratories at Corvallis, Ore., and Cincinnati, Ohio, respectively. They reported to the World Congress of Limnology, the study of lakes and streams.

TEN-YEAR TENURE - - - - By Alan Maver

Football Giants In Need of QB

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (AP) — If Earl Morrall turns out to be another Y. A. Tittle, Coach Allie Sherman of the New York Giants may have the take-charge quarterback to make his new wing T offense work.

Sherman cooked up this offense to suit the capabilities of his group of fine running backs like Tucker Fredrickson, Chuck Mercein, Ernie Koy, Ernie Wheelwright and Steve Thurlow.

After the first few exhibition games, he realized he needed an experienced quarterback to make it work so he made a deal Monday with Detroit for Earl Morrall, who had dropped behind Milt Plum in the Lions' order.

To get Morrall he had to give up Darrell Dess, a fine offensive guard, and Erich Barnes, a veteran cornerback, but he insists the trade doesn't mean he has given up on such younger quarterbacks as Gary Wood and Bob Timberlake.

"Morrall will not solve all our problems, but the trade will speed up our rebuilding plans," Sherman said. "It will help us develop our young players faster."

The deal that brought Tittle, already a veteran, to the Giants from San Francisco in 1961 paid off with several winning seasons. The balding pass master finally retired after the 1964 season. So did such Giant veterans as Frank Gifford, Alex Webster, Andy Robustelli, Jack Stroud, Joe Walton and Tom Scott. Don Chandler, the kicking specialist, went to Green Bay in an earlier trade.

Sherman wants to get the Giants out of the cellar after last year's collapse and obviously a great deal of rebuilding was called for.

Gary Wood, who was being groomed for the quarterback job, never will be another Tittle. The 5-11 Cornell grad can run the ball and has the poise to direct the ball club but his passing leaves much to be desired.

Sherman hopes that Wood or Bob Timberlake, a well-built 6-4, 220-pounder may develop into the player he needs. But Timberlake came up with a sore arm in the College All-Star camp and missed valuable instruction. When he did get into action, he showed little indicate that he can pass effectively in the NFL.

In the new offense, Joe Morrison is the wing back, sitting between the tackle and the end. Both ends are split with Aaron Thomas, normally the tight end, lining up about 8 to 10 yards outside the tackle.

Sherman has his backs line up in an I formation at times, shifting into the wing. Sometimes Morrison is a man in motion. At other times they remain in the tight T. In all cases, the quarterback still is up under the center.

"This is a rebuilding year," said Sherman, who can afford to rebuild a 2-10-2 club after signing a new 10-year contract as coach for a total salary of over $500,000.

Frederickson, the No. 1 draftee in the entire National Football League, has been hampered by illness and injuries but he is due to be the big man at fullback.

Wheelwright, the 1964 incumbent, still has a tendency to fumble. Thurlow has a fight on his hands from Koy, who can throw the option pass from the halfback position. Koy also punts. Mercein, the Yale boy, has impressed as a runner, receiver and place kicker. Smith Reed, a rookie from Alcorn A&M, also looks good.

Del Shofner, Tittle's favorite target, is back at split end with his ulcers under control and a few pounds to help him stand the grind. Homer Jones is behind him. Thomas plays the other end and John Adams, former Bear and Ram, backs up Morrison in the new wing back job.

Sherman picked up two guards, Pete Case from Philadelphia and Dave O'Brien from the Vikings to go with Bookie Bolin on defense. They made it possible to dispense with Dess, who Sherman called one of the finest guards in the league.

O'Brien also can play tackle if needed behind Frank Lasky on the right side. Rosey Brown, the offensive captain, is back for his 13th year as an all-league left tackle. Center is a problem because Greg Larson's knee, operated upon during the winter, has not come around. Mickey Walker has the job at present.

Eddie Arcaro won the Jockey Club Gold Cup race 10 times.

News of World in Brief

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The Margaret Creek Conservancy District was informed by U.S. Rep. Walter Moeller today that the Bureau of the Budget had approved a $683,000 grant to the district.

The project is planned for flood prevention as well as recreation and additional water supply. The district also has applied for a $400,000 federal loan.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Theodore M. Gray, R-Piqua, Senate majority leader, said today he planned to hold a dozen appointments by Gov. James A. Rhodes in the Senate Rules Committee to give them automatic approval at adjournment of the Legislature.

The constitution provides that the appointments are confirmed automatically if not acted upon by the Senate.

The one appointment on the way to the committee is that of John P. Sheehan, Cincinnati Democrat, to the Ohio Industrial Commission.

Others pending in the committee include: Kenneth A. Robinson, Marion and Dean L. Dolison, Logan, both State Racing Commission and Arthur G. Thatcher, Portsmouth, Board of Regents.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio House Clerk Carl Guess, 70, was in fair condition today in Riverside Hospital. Guess suffered a heart attack Friday.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Col. Kenneth W. Northamer took command today of the Tactical Air Command's 840th Air Division at Lockbourne Air Force Base. He succeeds Col. LeRoy M. Stanton, who was transferred to the Pentagon.

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Manry, who sailed the Atlantic eastward in the smallest boat to make the crossing, returned today in one of the world's largest ships.

Manry brought the 13½-foot Tinkerbelle back with him aboard the Queen Mary, which docked today.

The Cleveland newspaperman sailed alone from Falmouth, Mass., to Falmouth, England, in 78 days. The return voyage took 5½ days.

Asked how he liked returning on the superliner, Manry said "big boats are very pleasant."

Manry, 47, was accompanied by his wife, Virginia; his daughter, Robin, 14; and son, Douglas, 11.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that would make killing, kidnapping or attacking a president a federal crime has been signed into law by President Johnson.

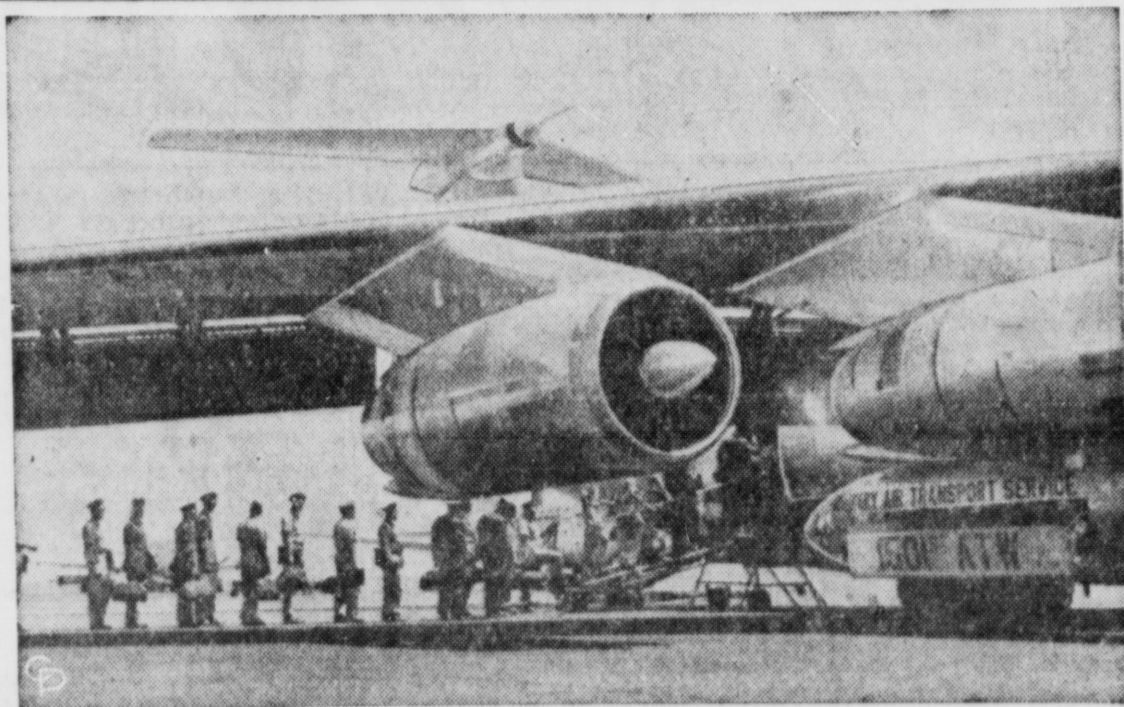

The bill carries out a recommendation of the President's Commission on the Assassination of President John F. Kennedy. It applies also to the vice president, president-elect, or anyone acting as president.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation is given jurisdiction over the investigation of any crime arising under the new law, with local and state jurisdiction suspended for the duration of the inquiry.

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union formally rejected today the American proposal for a treaty to stop the spread of nuclear weapons.

Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin told the 17-nation disarmament conference no such treaty can ever be concluded unless it bars West Germany from any direct or indirect access to nuclear weapons.

He described West German "revenge-seeking militarism" as the greatest danger to world security and declared that the Western powers are pretending to seek a halt to the spread of nuclear weapons while plotting to give access to such weapons to the "West German militarists."

Ohio Athletic Standards Are Set Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A joint advisory committee on athletic injuries today announced recommended standards for athletic programs for elementary schools and athletic programs involving children of elementary school age.

The recommendations were announced by the Ohio State Medical Association—Ohio High School Athletic Association's Joint Advisory Committee on Athletic Injuries.

The committee said each child should have a recent medical examination and authorization to participate, and like authorization to resume such participation after a significant injury or illness; each child have had tetanus and poliomyelitis immunization before entering a sports program.

Consideration should be given to grouping or matching of children according to size to obtain fair competition; good playing facilities and equipment are essential; in grades 1-6 inter-scholastic games should not be scheduled for this encourages high pressure, unsuitable for this age group; for same reason there should be no "all-star" games and not special scheduling to attract adult spectators.

Tackle football and ice hockey are unsuitable for younger adolescents; boxing at any age is not approved by the Ohio Department of Education or the Ohio High School Athletic Association.

The adoption of these standards "is of major importance in protecting the psychological and physical health of these young participants," the committee said.

SS Hospital Insurance Benefits Are Explained

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of articles by Alton E. Swanson, social security district manager in Chillicothe, describing what the social security amendments of 1965 mean to you and your family.

Area residents over 65 will first benefit from the hospital insurance program through social security on July 1, 1966. This is the effective date for most of the new program's provisions including benefits covering hospital inpatient services, home health services, and outpatient hospital diagnostic services. Another provision, covering posthospital extended care, will go into effect Jan. 1, 1967.

Another new program is a supplementary medical insurance plan which primarily insures against the cost of physicians' services. That plan will be explained in a later article; this one covers only the hospital insurance benefits.

The new law recently enacted by the Congress provides these benefits for all social security and railroad retirement beneficiaries 65 or over. In addition, it gives the same protection to those people now 65 or who will reach that age during the next few years but who are not eligible for social security or railroad retirement benefits.

Men and women who reach 65 after 1967 and who are not eligible for social security benefits may be eligible for hospital insurance if they have performed some work under the social security law. During a transitional period, from 1967 until 1973 for men and 1971 for women, not as much work will be required for health insurance benefits as for social security cash benefits.

The new law provides insurance protection for 90 days of inpatient hospital care in a "spell of illness." A "deductible" of $40 for each spell of illness would be paid by the patient. The patient will also pay $10 a day after the first 60 days. Services covered will include most of those normally furnished by a hospital in a semi-private room, but would not cover the services of anesthesiologists, pathologists, radiologists, or other physicians.

A "spell of illness" begins on the day a person enters a hospital or extended care facility and ends when he has not been a patient in any hospital or extended care facility for 60 consecutive days.

The new law also provides insurance protection for up to 100 days of continued treatment after hospital discharge in a qualified skilled nursing facility. This provision will not go into effect until January 1967. The patient will pay a deductible of $5 a day after the first 20 days of care.

Also provided is insurance protection for outpatient hospital diagnostic services as needed. A patient must pay the first $20 for diagnostic services furnished him by a single hospital during a 20-day period, and 20 percent of the charges above $20.

The hospital insurance program will pay for home health services provided by a qualified agency up to 100 visits during the year after the patient is discharged from a hospital or extended care facility. These services are provided to a person 65 or over who is homebound, and in the care of a physician, if the services are based on a doctor's plan established within 14 days after hospital discharge, and continue treatment for the condition treated in the hospital. Services provided include home nursing care, therapy, and the parttime services of a home health aide.

All those eligible for benefits will be given an identification card. Present social security and railroad retirement beneficiaries over 65 will receive their card by mail.

Those who have never filed an application for social security benefits should apply for an identification card. Information about how to get the card will be available in the near future. Those over 65 who are not eligible for social security benefits because they do not have enough work credit will soon receive information on how to get their identification cards.

Area residents who have questions about hospital insurance benefits, or any other matter relating to social security may write, phone or visit the Chillicothe Social Security office located at 32 W. Main St.

Ohio Athletic Standards Are Set Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A joint advisory committee on athletic injuries today announced recommended standards for athletic programs for elementary schools and athletic programs involving children of elementary school age.

The recommendations were announced by the Ohio State Medical Association—Ohio High School Athletic Association's Joint Advisory Committee on Athletic Injuries.

The committee said each child should have a recent medical examination and authorization to participate, and like authorization to resume such participation after a significant injury or illness; each child have had tetanus and poliomyelitis immunization before entering a sports program.

Consideration should be given to grouping or matching of children according to size to obtain fair competition; good playing facilities and equipment are essential; in grades 1-6 inter-scholastic games should not be scheduled for this encourages high pressure, unsuitable for this age group; for same reason there should be no "all-star" games and not special scheduling to attract adult spectators.

Tackle football and ice hockey are unsuitable for younger adolescents; boxing at any age is not approved by the Ohio Department of Education or the Ohio High School Athletic Association.

The adoption of these standards "is of major importance in protecting the psychological and physical health of these young participants," the committee said.

Old Dinosaur Prints Are Found in Jersey

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Dinosaurs 20 feet long and weighing a ton roamed New Jersey about 180 million years ago, a leading paleontologist says. Dr. Donald Baird of the Princeton University Museum of Natural History says footprints the ancient creatures left in mud now turned to stone were found in land being cleared for a new golf course.
